Political Parsons Screened Before Virginia Conference

Resolutions Passed Opposing Bishops Living outside Their Districts—Bishop Tells Preachers He Is Having Hard Time Finding Place for Some of Them because of Their Political Activities—Bishop Denny's Address Mirrors Dangers of Preachers Sticking Their Noses into Politics—Secretary of Temperance and Social Service Commission, Who Loaned Bishop Cannon Church Money Which Was Used for Political Purposes, Smites Himself on Chest at Holston, Tennessee Methodist Conference as One Proud of What He Had Done—Church Paper takes Shot at Crawford and Bishop DuBose, Et Al.

Richmond, Va., Oct. 21.—Two new developments stood out today in the work of the annual Virginia conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, meeting here.

1. Adoption of a memorial to the general conference at Dallas by a vote of 79 to 68 demanding a rule prohibiting missionary bishops from leaving their assigned territory.

2. Apparent shelving of a movement to curtail the political activities of pastors of the church, when the committee on memorials ruled it out of order.

Rap At Cannon Denied

There was much speculation on the exact purport of the rule against missionary bishops, whether it was aimed specifically at James Cannon, who is assigned to three conferences in Brazil and one in Africa.

Proponents of the measure insisted it was aimed at no bishop in particular, but a bitter debate preceded the vote, featured by the opposition of George P. Adams, Blackstone, long associated with Bishop Cannon in Anti-Saloon League work in Virginia.

Advocates of the measure included Dr. J. C. Newton, former missionary bishop to Japan, who complained against "bob-tailed bishops." Non-resident bishops, he said, cannot give satisfactory administration.

Rapped "Gambling"

Dr. J. B. Winn was chairman of the committee which recommended adoption of the memorial, and that fact gave rise to discussion of a sermon he preached recently against gambling, construed in some quarters as aimed at the stock market activities of Bishop Cannon.

The following is a part of Bishop Denny's address in opening the Virginia conference which was inserted in the congressional record at the instance of Senator Blaise of South Carolina, a Methodist.

"The bare fact that moral question is involved in politics does not give you the right to go into partisan politics, and if you do so you go at the danger to your spiritual influence." Bishop Collins Denny told the class for admission into full connection in the church at the one hundred and forty-seventh session of the Virginia annual conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church South at Broad Street Church yesterday.

Bishop Denny addressed the class on Are You Resolved to Devote Yourself Wholly to God and His Work? In cautioning the members against any participation in politics, he said:

"You don't belong to the world of men outside. You are set apart—not as other men. You are separated by God, not only from the bulk of other men but to be peculiar instruments of God in spreading the gospel. This has been eclipsed in our day, I don't know why.

Are Set Apart

"The church in its church capacity has nothing to do with politics, and this conference in its conference capacity has nothing to do with politics.

"Don't tell me some men have done otherwise! I know it. I am having difficulty in appointing men in this conference because they wouldn't keep out of politics. Remember this is a voluntary organization. We have filled up many other churches that would have died had it not been for the Methodists. I believe we would be ten thousand times better off with half the people we have if that half were devoted to the law of the living God.

Must Set Good Example

"We will not choose the laws we are going to adhere to. We must set a good example. You may tell your people that they must obey the laws of the State and the General Government. I've done that myself, not that I'm holding myself up as an example. You can tell them that no drunkard shall inherit the kingdom of God and that no adulterers shall inherit the kingdom of God, but when you get into the realm of partisan politics you are going to hurt your influence as spiritual leader.

"We occupy different relationships in life. Morals are built on personal relationships. You have relations as a father, that you don't have as a neighbor. You may punish your own children, but that right does not extend to your neighbor's children.

"Here is a closer example: A man goes home, goes into his own front door without knocking—that is all right. He goes upstairs and into his wife's room and kisses her. That is all right. Suppose he goes across the street—here the bishop paused for his point to sink in, while a ripple of laughter swept the floor of the conference.

Endanger Influence
"The bare fact that a moral question is involved in politics does not give you the right to go into partisan politics, and if you do so you go at the danger to your spiritual influence.

"You look through the history of the church. There never was a man who went into politics in the history of the church who did not damage his influence."

The following are some of the words uttered by Dr. Eugene L. Crawford, who presides as secretary over Bishop Cannon's Temperance and Social Service Board, before the Methodist conference at Chattanooga, which conference was presided over by Bishop DuBose who made himself very active last fall in politics. It will be recalled that Crawford's board loaned Bishop Cannon some money to get the wheels of his political machine moving last year.

Dr. Eugene L. Crawford, Secretary of the Board of Temperance and Social Service, delivered an oration and paid a high tribute to President Hoover "for his zeal in taking steps to secure better enforcement of the Eighteenth Amendment. Conditions are better under the President now in the chair at the White House than they have been under any other," Dr. Crawford said, adding that Bishop DuBose's questionnaire on the prohibition issue in the recent Presidential campaign "turned the tide of Southern votes to the Republican party and played a huge part in breaking the solid South."

Commenting on Mr. Crawford's remarks, the Southern Methodist said:

"We have been a prohibitionist all our life and have spoken and written in the interest of the prohibition cause since the days of our youth, and we appreciate anything that President Hoover has done, or may do, to secure a better enforcement of the Eighteenth Amendment and the Volstead Act. But we cannot but wonder, even if it should be conceded that it was a proper thing for citizens in the Southern States to support the Republican ticket and break the solid South in view of the situation then existing, what an Annual Conference of our Church has to do with the matter?"

"Is it a proper thing for a high Church official in a Church meeting to boast of a Bishop's having gone into politics and of having helped to disrupt the political solidarity which has been regarded by the ablest and purest of our Southern statesmen as the strongest safeguard that the white people of this section have against racial, social and political equality?"

MILTON WILLIAMS PRAISED

Memphis, Tenn., Oct. 21.—A Jackson boy who was playing marbles in Pointdexter Park a few years ago is the directing genius behind the 1929 convention of the American Bar Association, opening Wednesday in Memphis.

He is Milton Williams, now practicing law in Memphis, and until recently secretary to Congressman W. J. Driver of Arkansas in Washington.

Williams has devoted the greater part of the past two months preparing for the three day convention of 3,500 barristers. To see him in action here at the convention headquarters in the Peabody Hotel is to see a humanized bolt of lightning. To get a chance to talk to him is impossible now and probably will be all this week.

The above news story appeared in Jackson Daily News of Monday.

It is indeed a fine compliment to Mr. Williams that he should have been named secretary of the National Bar Association for the Memphis meet. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Van Williams of Grenada and is a fine young man. He must have made an exceptionally fine congressional secretary which no doubt accounts for this exceptional honor that has come to him.

"Shoddy"

During the Civil war some of the soldiers' uniforms were made of shoddy. The term then came into general use for describing anything that was inferior or adulterated.

SEVEN HOMES ENTERED

A burglar or burglars entered the homes of Mrs. Bruce Newsom, H. J. Ray and H. H. Heath, on Margin Street, H. W. Baker, corner Margin and College and Drew Roane, Sel Roane and T. E. Heath, on Main Street, Sunday night. The first named place was the only one where any gain was secured. $5.00 was taken from Mrs. Newsom's pocketbook but nothing else was disturbed. Entrance to the different houses was gained in practically the same manner—a window screen was slit with a knife and the catch released, the burglar entering the living room.

No clues have been found but the opinion is expressed that the intruder was a local person.

MOVING BRIDGE FOR SPAN NEAR HOLCOMB

Horton's Bridge Ordered Moved by Supervisors to Span Yalobusha Near Holcomb. Bridge Will Fill Long-felt Need. Incidents of Years Ago Recalled.

The board of supervisors of Grenada county passed an order at its October meeting for the removal of the iron bridge, generally known as "Horton's bridge," across the Yalobusha river six miles east of Grenada, to a point on the same river almost immediately north of what is known as the old Curt Guy home, one mile east of Holcomb. The bridge is to span the river at practically the point known in the years ago as "Harkin's ferry". The banks are high on both sides of the river and it is stated that it will not be necessary to sink a pier in the bed of the river. The span of the bridge will extend from bank to bank.

The board is to be congratulated and commended for this action. The abandonment of the road leading to the bridge has been a matter of several years and serves to furnish another example of the changes wrought by time.

When this bridge was built east of Grenada, it was considered as meaning much to the western part of district 3, and something worth while to Grenada. The road and the bridge were used a great deal for something like fifteen years, but with the building of better highways, and particularly the two paralleling the river on the north and the south, the road and the bridge ceased to be used. The bridge has been standing there as silent witness in the forest of the changes wrought by time and by new conditions.

There has been an insistent demand for years to erect a bridge across the river north of Holcomb, and particularly true has this been of the citizenship of Holcomb and vicinity, in addition there have been many on the north side of the river in that vicinity who have urged the building of a bridge. It is stated that it will be necessary to build a mile or so of dump on the north side of the river to reach the bridge but that the opening of the road on the south side of the river will be a rather easy task.

The work of removal and re-erection of the bridge is largely in the hands of supervisors B. W. Smith of district 4, and W. W. Whitaker of district 5. These gentlemen are to be commended for their cooperative spirit and for realizing the opportunity they have in building wisely for the future and of making Grenada county still more attractive to outside investors. Holcomb and vicinity are realizing in this bridge their dreams and efforts of more than fifteen years.

There is much history connected with the old Harkin's ferry. It was "in its day" one of the most used ferries in the county. The cane brakes and dense forests that used to surround that locality made it a rendezvous for panthers, wild cats and bears. One occasion, Uncle Billy Hall, an old man of his later years, and an uncle of Mr. Claud Hall and of Mrs. W. H. Whitaker, came to Grenada one day for a burial robe for Mrs. Holt, who had lived on the north side of the river and about one mile east of the ferry. He was horseback. Dark overtook him somewhere near what is now DuBard. When he entered the river bottom, he noticed his horse shying and sniffing its nose, and directly he saw a panther cross the road behind him several times. He managed to see the animal and to shine its eyes by means of matches. Mr. Hall stated that when he reached the river, he hollered for the ferryman, but that he alighted from his horse which he held by the bridle at the water's edge. He stood with drawn pocket knife as the panther paced from one side of the road to the other only a few feet away, and it was his purpose, he said, to roll into the river with the panther, if he should attack him. Panthers, it has been said, will never attack a human being so long as their eyes are upon them—they can not stand the searchlight of the human eye. How like so many treacherous persons. There are other equally thrilling

J. W. DUBARD DIES

While sitting beside daughter, Mrs. Joe H. Jackson, at a car on the public square at about 8 o'clock this morning, October 21, Mr. J. W. Dubard was called to the by the end was peaceful. It without warning.

Mr. Dubard has not been a man since an attack of the something like a year ago. On just a few days ago, he was seized with a sort of smothering spell, during the night. The next morning his family physician was summoned and he was given treatment that enabled him to be up and out within a few days, however, his daughter was fearful that he was taxing himself too much.

For a number of years Mr. Dubard had sold tickets at the gate at the fair, Monday morning he got ready for a similar duty for the present fair. His daughter had driven him to the fair grounds when he was advised that secretary Cain had assigned him to sell tickets in the booth in the city park. He and his daughter had just reached the place assigned him when he was taken.

Mr. Dubard was born in Grenada county southwest of Grenada October 27, 1856, being a son of Robert and Martha Dubard; his mother was a sister of Mr. Nath Koon, a man well remembered in the county by the older citizens. He married Miss Sallie Gordon, a fine woman and a noble Christian character who passed away several years ago.

Mr. Dubard remained in the country and on his farm until just a few years ago. He was a member of the Spring Hill Methodist church and had long served as a member of its board of stewards. He took an active interest in his church. He was a rather unostentatious citizen. If he thought unkindly of anybody, he rarely expressed it. He lived at peace with his neighbors and with the world. He was conscientious in the discharge of duty and dependable for what he promised. He was a kind and loving husband, an affectionate father and a good neighbor and obliging friend.

He is survived by two sons, G. R. and J. W. Dubard, both of Water Valley, and one daughter, Mrs. Joe H. Jackson, with whom he was making his home at the time of his death. Besides these there are numerous other relatives.

The funeral services were conducted by Rev. J. H. Holder, pastor of the Methodist church in Grenada, and by Rev. W. J. Wood, of the Holcomb circuit, after which his body was consigned to the grave at the Spring Hill church burying ground beside those of his wife.

The Sentinel tenders sincere sympathy to the grief stricken.

AUGUSTUS S. WEIGERT DIES

Mr. Augustus S. Weigert died at the home of his only daughter, Mrs. W. M. Pritchard, in Oakland last Sunday after an illness of some days which seized him when he went to make his daughter a visit. Mr. Weigert was 86 years of age. His early home was at York, Pennsylvania. He was a federal soldier in the Civil War and, while he had made his home in Grenada since the close of the war, he remained a steadfast adherent of the cause of the federal soldiers as he saw the right. After coming to Grenada, he married Miss Mag- garet Highgate, a fine woman and a member of a splendid family; she died some fifteen years ago. To this union four children were born, two of whom died in infancy. A son, named for the father, was drowned some years ago while in bathing in Spring Lake, near Grenada.

Mr. Weigert was a blacksmith by trade and did much to dignify this calling in Grenada. He was an expert in his line. He was honest. He kept his obligations. He indulged in no useless conversations. He kept his own counsels. His aim was to be just in all things and to deal honestly with his fellowman. For many years he had been a member of the Presbyterian church and he lived by the teachings of that faith as he understood them.

The Sentinel sympathizes with the bereft.

ing experiences which neighborhood tradition has handed down about Harkin's ferry, some of which will no doubt be thought over again and talked about because of this bridge. The old citizens of 50 years ago used to relate stories of the notorious robber, Murrell, who was believed to have hid himself away near Harkin's ferry on Hubbard's

PRESBYTERIAL MEETS

District 3 of the North Mississippi Presbyterian held an all day session in Grenada last Friday with the presbyterial president, Mrs. F. C. Mattison, of Holly Springs, presiding. Seven cities make up those composing the district.

The welcome address was made by Mrs. W. D. Salmon, of the local presbyterial group, and Miss E. Young, also of Grenada, talking interestingly on "The Missionary School as the Embryonic Church." Miss Grace Aust, one of the church's leading workers among the young people, conducted the hymn and Bible hour. Mrs. Fannie Morrison, of Grenada, and Mrs. Mattison contributed much to the program with their addresses.

YOUNG'S ADDRESS IS ENDORSED BY WRITER

Says Reparations Expert Hit Nail on Head in Saying Students Should "Specialize in Generalization" to Better Fit Selves for Business Battles.

Editor Sentinel:

"Recently Owen D. Young, whose epochal achievement in involving a final settlement of the problem of reparations, made an address which must arrest and provoke thought in this day of specialization in educational methods," so said a well known editor. He advised students to become "specialists in generalization." He said: "We may be worth more, in leading a great industry in a foreign country, to know something of history, the great arts and the languages than to know about chemistry and physics. When, in these days, we hear so much about vocational education; that the youngsters can do things better than any one else when they are so highly specialized. I am glad to find groups who are more generalized."

Now, I felt right there that I must say a word of commendation of Mr. Young. I quite agree with him in that breadth of education is just as important as depth. Many of our young people are so rampant after specializing in some subjects that they have ceased to look after their mother tongue (a very sad lapse) and slips through high school and college with a smattering of good English, and good manners, not realizing that those two subjects are the basic elements which produce success in any avenue in which they may decide to specialize. If our teachers stressed mannerism and spoken English more in the elementary schools, our youngsters would stand a better chance to become artists in any line they might choose; they could then appreciate the masters they meet in reading, and realize that while athletics is something it lacks a great deal of taking them to the heights of intellectual love. To know English grammar, and to use that knowledge is one of the sine qua non which places us, when from our own native roof tree we wander; thus enabling us to understand other languages and other peoples for generalization in language is the spring from which great men get inspiration and a fulcrum on which to place the lever with which they expect to turn the world over.

Many of our schools are leaving off Latin, long since have left off Greek and as a result, the future will show a lessening of brilliant men and orators. With Mr. Young I think we should encourage "Specialization in generalization."

S. M. BICKERSTAFF IS DEAD

S. M. Bickerstaff passed away last Saturday, Oct. 19, at noon. Funeral services were conducted Sunday at 2 p. m. from the Hebron Baptist Church, three miles east of Grenada, by Dr. W. E. Farr, pastor of the Grenada First Baptist Church, officiating.

Mr. Bickerstaff was 85 years of age. During the war between the states he enlisted under the Confederate banner and served his cause gallantly throughout the war. He had long been a member of the Baptist church and endeavored to live as best he could up to its tenets. He was a good father, a provident husband and a kind and obliging neighbor.

Besides his wife he is survived by three sons and three daughters, to whom The Sentinel tenders its sincerest sympathy.

GIRL RESERVES MEET

The Girl Reserves held their Recognition Service in the high school auditorium Thursday afternoon, October 18. This service was for the recognition of new members. There were five new members. Each one was given a candle which she lighted from the Circle of Light, made by a circle of candles. This was a very beautiful and effective service. After this a very interesting program under leadership of Mary Upshaw Jones was given. The meeting was closed by the watchword.—Reporter

41st North Mississippi Fair Proves More Than Successful

Wealth of Exhibits on Display at Fair in Progress Here This Week Proves Revelation as to Progress Being Made by This Section—Agricultural Displays, Exhibits of Colored Folks, Woman's Building, Poultry Breeds, Swine and Dairy Cattle Drawing Thousands of Visitors—Thoroughbred Horses and Greyhounds Thrill Fair Visitors Every Afternoon, Presenting Best Racing Program Seen Here for Years—Sun Bros. Circus, with Fifteen Acts, Numbered among Free Attractions—Pramar's Revue Gives Pleasing Program Every Evening—Murphy Shows on Midway Living Up to Past Reputation for Entertainment.

While the opening day of the 41st North Mississippi Fair was not a record breaker in point of attendance, fair officials were more than pleased at the enthusiasm manifested by the crowds who witnessed the various attractions and who saw the various exhibits here Monday. Rain Sunday night proved a godsend since it settled the dust and made travel to and from the fairgrounds a pleasure instead of an annoyance.

Every exhibit hall was taxed to its utmost capacity and the overflow from several displays was shown as best as possible. Perhaps the building Monday which elicited greater attention was the agricultural hall where the community displays of placed. Hardy and Gore Springs communities of Grenada county, Alva of Montgomery, Gravel Hill of Carroll, Mooreville of Lee, Independence of Panola, and Scuna Valley of Yalobusha were vying for first place and the judges in this department had a most difficult task before them.

In the agricultural building the showing of the Mississippi Forestry Department, stressing the importance of the preservation of Mississippi's timber resources, the display of the State Plant Board, showing the damage wrought by various insects and animals to plant and human life and how these pests are controlled, and the exhibit of the Grenada City Schools, showing the progress of the pupils from year to year, have elicited much praise. Each is a remarkable lesson in itself.

The building occupied by the displays of the colored citizens of the fair district has attracted more than the usual attention. The building contains displays that would reflect credit on any fair and it is far above the ordinary for the Grenada fair. Besides ten booths devoted to Grenada county exhibits, there are displays from Sunflower, Leflore, Bolivar, Madison and Humphreys counties, arranged and in charge solely of colored people. A. H. Henderson, one of Grenada county's foremost negroes and county negro demonstration agent, assisted by M. M. Hubert, has this building in charge and the results shown in the various booths are more than commendable.

In the cattle barn are to be found some of the best and finest dairy cattle ever shown here. One of the outstanding herds on display is that of the Gayoso Farms, near Memphis, in which are included many prize winning animals. The dairying exhibit once again emphasizes the importance of this industry to Mississippi and especially to this section of the state which is peculiarly adapted for dairy farming. Excellent pasturing, the year round abundance of water are essential to the successful dairy farm and these two things are to be found in the territory making up the North Mississippi fair district.

The poultry building contains one of the greatest exhibits of fowls heretofore gathered together at one time at a Grenada fair and here the poultryman and those in any way interested in this important feature of the well

GREEK POLAND RICE DIED IN ROSEDALE SATURDAY

Mr. Greek Poland Rice was stricken suddenly at his home in Rosedale last Saturday afternoon in the 62nd year of his age. He was reared near Cascilla in Tallahatchie county, being a son of G. P. Rice, a highly educated man and a most fluent conversationalist. The deceased is no doubt remembered by some of the oldest citizens of Grenada. He went to the delta when he was a few years past his majority, and had succeeded well there in business. He was a big souled, liberal hearted man, and the people of his community say that there is hardly a man in that section who did more for the poor and the needy than Greek P. Rice. He was a brother of Lent I. Rice, who was during his life time so prominent in the affairs of Tallahatchie county. It was the writer's privilege to count Mr. Rice as one of his good friends, and we drop a tear with those very near to him who mourn his death.

He is survived by his wife and several children besides numerous relatives in Tallahatchie county and some in this county. Mr. Rice Pressgrove, of Grenada, is his nephew. He was a member of the Baptist church and the last sad words said over his remains were spoken by his pastor.

rounded farm have gleaned many valuable pointers for the improvement of and caring for their broods.

The showing of hogs has attracted more than the usual amount of attention this week from those visiting the fair. Some of the finest swine in the state are being displayed.

The racing program each afternoon of the fair has done much to help swell the daily attendance. Greyhound races, something new and novel to Grenada fairgoers, have been staged each afternoon and they have indeed proved a first class attraction. Then, too, the horse races this year have been above the ordinary, many thoroughbred horses, en route to New Orleans, Miami and Havana for the winter racing season, were brought to Grenada by their owners to make the fair. By doing this they broke a long train journey and have helped, some of them, to pay expenses during the interval. The crowds have enjoyed the races and much comment has been heard on their excellence.

Sun Bros. Circus have each afternoon and evening presented fifteen different acts in two rings before the grandstand. Several of the numbers were originally with Barnum & Bailey and each has elicited its share of applause from the spectators. Pramar's Revue has been staged before the grandstand each night in addition to the circus acts and it has pleased most highly all who saw it. The afternoon's entertainment program begins promptly at 1:30 o'clock and the evening performance starts at 7:30.

D. D. Murphy Shows, with one of the largest and best midways ever to play the Grenada fair, has been playing to capacity crowds all week. There are any number of new rides and an equal number of splendid shows that have contributed their share to making this one of Grenada's best fairs. The Murphy Shows have made several seasons here before and that they have made friends here and have pleased fairgoers is attested by the fact that they have been repeatedly engaged. The personnel of the Murphy organization is far above the ordinary and the shows presented on the midway are of a high class type.

The fact that the fair this year has more than come up to every expectation is the cause for much gratification. For a while early in the year it seemed that Grenada would have no fair in 1929. But the directors of the association got together and persuaded S. M. Cain to remain another year as secretary. Mr. Cain has served as fair secretary for several years and it is to him that the lion's share of the credit for its success should be accorded; he has worked hard, he has worked faithfully and has given freely of his time and energy looking to the success of the exposition each year. He is a genius at organization work and he has gathered around him an able corps of assistants in each department. He has kept his finger on every detail of the vast machinery necessary to put across a thing of such magnitude as the annual fair and the precision and smoothness with which the daily program is carried out is a silent tribute to his ability. Mr. Cain is deserving of every praise for his labors and The Sentinel nominates him here and now as the best fair secretary in the state.

JEFF BUSBY HERE

Congressman Visits Grenada Fair Wednesday.

Among the distinguished visitors to Grenada this week for the annual fair was Hon. Jeff Busby, of Houston, congressman from this district. While in Grenada Mr. Busby was an appreciated caller at The Sentinel office.

Mr. Busby is spending a few days in various points in his district looking after various matters he has up before Congress and he is very optimistic over the success of various projects he is sponsoring for his constituency. Mr. Busby discussed several matters that are confronting the lawmakers in Washington and his conversation indicates that he is keeping in close touch with the Nation's affairs. He has made a most enviable record during his tenure of office as a worker and is regarded as one of Mississippi's most valuable members in the lower house.

Mr. Busby will probably visit Grenada again in the near future and he may be assured of a most cordial welcome.

APOSTLES "WERE A TOUGH LOT"

Bishop Edgar Blake of the northern Methodist church is credited with having said recently at a Methodist conference that the Apostles "were a tough lot of fishermen who quarreled and swore and were self-seekers". Some one has construed all the Bishop said in this connection as meaning that he did not think that "Peter, James and John" could get into the Methodist church today. We are unable to satisfy ourselves as to just what was the purpose of the Bishop's observations. If he meant that these men had not been educated "in an accredited college", where the amount of the endowment is the sine qua non upon which the standing of the college is based, or that they had not had "standardized" education, he was eminently correct. But if he meant that they were of not the right social standing to get entree to Methodist circles, and shall we say "high society", then we think his remarks were made unadvisedly and were such as to give a very unwholesome idea of present day church standards.

WHAT WILL STOP THE HOLOCAUST OF CRIME?

It is a source of humiliation and shame that America, these United States, is the habitat of more law-breakers, murderers, burglars, embezzlers, thieves and swindlers than any other country on the face of the globe. But like Mark Twain's saying of the weather, "everybody is talking about it but nobody doing anything about it".

The trouble is, that the home-lovers and the law-abiding people are making no persistent cooperative efforts to stop the wave of crime. It is true that there are spasmodic efforts, but we do not seem to be getting anywhere.

There is an underlying cause for the crime record of this Nation. There is bound to be an outstanding cause. There can be no effect without a cause.

There have been thousands of diagnoses of the multiplied numbers of crimes. If we were called upon to state in succinct terms the causes we would name them in this order:

1. We are more absorbed in making money than in making citizens.
2. We have abused liberty.
3. That moral breakdown that always follows war.
4. Technicalities in courts which fetter even-handed justice.
5. The failure of the pulpit to picture the terrors of hell.
6. A maudlin sympathy that urges pardons.
7. The failure of the citizen to study and analyze daily happenings.
8. The difference shown between big stealers and small stealers.

When one is charged with a capital offense and is able to employ learned lawyers his attorneys clutter the record with the testimony of alienists who swear that the accused is afflicted with psychosis or with some other "psy", and maybe days will be consumed by the court in allowing this paid for testimony, to go to the jury. Witness the case of the Chicago University professor who led one of his students along the primrose path and then killed her. Alienists gave testimony which they thought would slip the professor from the clutches of the law. This case is but one of hundreds of a similar kind.

From a letter written to one of our exchanges, by L. J. Folse, secretary of the Mississippi Development Board, and a mighty fine man and thoughtful citizen, we quote an extract. The letter was no doubt inspired because of the killing of Miss Bloodworth only a few weeks ago at Oxford by a car driven by drunken men or one of which was a notorious bootlegger and moonshiner.

"A few weeks ago the state was shocked because a fine young woman was killed at Oxford by an automobile full of drunken men, one of the men being a notorious bootlegger and moonshiner. Something was said in the press about the killing of this young lady being a part of God's plan—that's an easy way out of many dangers"

Mr. Folse is an analyzing character, and in his letter he protests against placing the premature death of Miss Bloodworth on God. Folse said, among other things, "her death came about as a result of the utter disregard of law which is altogether too prevalent in this country, and there is a reason for it all". Among other things he mentions the killing of an elderly lady in the city of Jackson by a drunken young man in an automobile, an instance where the responsibility was wholly on the driver. The police investigated and made a full report but he says the grand jury rendered "no indictment". He further stated, "Please do not place the responsibility upon God, but call attention to the make-shift, hypocritical system of law enforcement which we support, and in spite of our black record, we raise millions to send missionaries abroad to convert the so-called heathen to our way of thinking and living".

The trouble with too many of us today is that we refuse to see what is round about us or what is coming towards us, and only get our eyes opened on a late schedule.

Reliable statistics show that murder has increased in these United States since 1900, 600 per cent, while the crime of burglary and theft has increased for the same period quite 4,000 per cent.

These appalling conditions will continue to multiply as long as the dollar mark is the standard and until the good people of the land make a determined, cooperative effort, to stop crime.

President Hoover has done the best he could, the best that can be done, towards studying causes and finding remedies, and we shall be disappointed if good results do not come of the work of the commission he has named.

In the meantime, let's not depend on Uncle Sam, or any commission, but let each and every citizen realize that there is something for him to do as an individual.

PROOF THAT NEGRO GETS JUSTICE BEFORE COURT

This paper has long stood for even handed justice before the courts for the colored man and we have held that he should be paid what is justly due him for labor or as a result of his labor. It may be said that this has not been done in many instances. It has just about as frequently failed to be done for the poor white man who is without potential friends or who is unable to employ good lawyers as for the negro.

The case in mind just now is that of Jack Byrd a negro of Simpson county who was tried and given a life sentence on the charge of having murdered Bilbo Cox, white, during the Christmas period of 1928. The negro's case was appealed to the state supreme court and that tribunal not only reversed the decision of the lower court but gave the negro his liberty. Judge Griffith, in rendering the court's opinion, used the following language.

"Upon a careful study of this record and of every detail of it, we cannot escape the conclusion that if this had been a case where a white man had killed a white man, or a negro had killed a negro, there would never have been a conviction. We therefore reverse the verdict and judgment; and since it is clear from the entire situation that the case is such that we would be compelled to take the same action in the event of another conviction, we order the defendant discharged."

We have seen it authoritatively stated that Judge S. S. Calhoun, now passed to his reward and one of the ablest jurists the state ever had, in rendering the opinion of the supreme court in the case of Hampton vs. the state said these significant things,—and our people are ready to admit that we have advanced much since the day of Judge Calhoun:

"Mulattoes, negroes, Malays, whites, millionaires, paupers, princes, and kings, in the courts of Mississippi are on precisely the same exactly equal footing. All must be tried on facts and not on abuse. Only impartial trials can pass the Red Sea of this court without drowning. Trials are to vindicate innocence or ascertain guilt, and are not to be vehicles for denunciation."

Juries may be swayed by the passions of a community; they may yield to the clamor that tramples justice under foot and may show an utter disregard of their oath, but so long as our highest courts can be relied on to give an honest interpretation of the law and to consider facts presented as men acting after the judgment seat of the most High, the country's liberties are safe and we shall continue to grow and prosper in spite of our follies and the weaknesses of human flesh.

The Jack Byrd decision goes a long way towards answering critics who do not give a tinker's d—m for the negro and who are more concerned about the slop of the swine than they are the honey of the bee.

"THROUGH SLAUGHTER HOUSE TO OPEN GRAVE"

We noted a press item a few days ago in which Ex-Governor Al Smith was queried as to whether or not he would be a candidate for the presidency again in 1932, and that his answer was neither yes nor no. To nominate Smith in 1932, the Democratic party would, to use a phrase of Henry Watterson's, start "a march through a slaughter house to an open grave". The country may get ready to elect an adherent of the Catholic church to the presidency, but it most assuredly is not ready now. The election of 1928 demonstrated this beyond controversy.

It is not the purpose of this editorial to argue how unfortunate it is to draw denominational lines in choosing men for public office or to discuss the evidence of the lack of heavenly grace in drawing such lines, but to state a fact.

There are those who would apply the brass-toed boot to Smith and Raskob, and Mr. Smith's responses to his interviewer were no doubt prompted by an unwillingness to feed the swine instincts of his adversaries in his own party. There is a time for all things. Why play the bull in an already damaged china shop by demanding something of Raskob that was never demanded of another party chairman?

The naming of Raskob to head the National committee was a political blunder, but some of his blatant mouthed accusers who see nothing on the political horizon except "prohibition", might profit by what he has taught his children—he has eleven and not a one of them touches whiskey.

If Al Smith is as wise and sagacious as he is generally credited with being, he knows that his nomination again would be an act of party suicide, nevertheless we can well understand how he does not propose to be booted out at the instance of the popinjays who have never been anything but inconspicuous in the counsels or battles of the party.

LAWYERS WANT RING AROUND PROFESSION.

The National Bar Association is in session in Memphis. There have been many hints given the press about what would likely be the leading things considered by the association. One of these is that those seeking to enter the profession must have had two years of college training. The lawyers, too, have the "standardizing" fever. The country has a case of belly ache now because of standardizing. The whole trend of education is to make it one of aristocracy—not of brains but of money. Why, some of the greatest lawyers the country ever had were not college men. Four of the country's greatest and most outstanding presidents, Jackson, Lincoln, Johnson and Cleveland were not college men. Tut! Tut! Let's have none of it.

We wonder how many have been reading the articles which have appeared in several of the daily newspapers during the past few months from the pen of Judge Ethridge of the state supreme court? The judge is making a contribution to the thought of the day in these articles that has the ring of the days of Jefferson and which sounds a clarion note of warning.

Millions of Miles of Constant Testing to maintain the outstanding quality and dependability of The Chevrolet Six

In spite of the fact that a million Chevrolet Sixes have already been placed in the hands of owners, and have proved their performance and stamina by billions of miles of service over every type of highway the nation affords—

—the Chevrolet Motor Company continues to take new Chevrolet Sixes from the assembly line at the factory and subject them to pitiless testing on the roads of the General Motors Proving Ground!

This passion for proof—this consistent refusal to accept any tests as final—is one of the fundamental reasons for the overwhelming popularity of Chevrolet cars. For in no other way is it possible to make the Chevrolet Six so sound in design and materials—so dependable in performance—and so economical to operate!

If you are considering the purchase of an automobile, come in and see the new Chevrolet. You will find that it is more than a Six in the price range of the four. In every way it is a finer car than you ever thought possible in the low-price field!

A fifth wheel speedometer accurately measures speed and mileage on all Chevrolet test runs at the Proving Ground.

THE CHRISTIAN'S VIEW OF RECREATION

LESSON TEXT—Jer. 3:12, 13, Zech. 8:15, Mark 2:18-28, Mark 6:30-32, John 2:1-11.

GOLDEN TEXT—I am come that they may have life and that they might have it more abundantly.

PRIMARY TOPIC—The Right Way to Play.

JUNIOR TOPIC—The Right Way to Play.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—What Play Does for Us.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Recreation in Community Life.

In the last lesson we saw that work was God's primal law for man. In work there is a certain breaking down of cells which needs constant repair; therefore, in order that work may continue there must be recreation. Recreation means re-creation. Failure to discern this truth has made of recreation dissipation. In this light let us view the salient points in the scripture selected for our study.

I. The Coming Golden Age. (Jer. 3:12, 13).

Though Jeremiah was the weeping prophet, and presented dark pictures of Israel's condition, God gave him a view of Israel's golden age. He made known how that through the mighty hand of God the chosen nation should be delivered from bondage and brought into their own land where peace, prosperity and gladness should prevail. The source of all real recreation is right relationship with God. God is the source of all joy. Nothing so powerfully affects the physical organism in its renewal as joy in God. In this coming age the streets of the city will be safe for old people and for the children (Zech. 8:4, 5).

II. The Christian's Relation to Fasting (Mark 2:18-23).

1. A question asked (v. 18).

The very joyfulness of the disciples of Christ, in contrast with the disciples of John and the Pharisees, moved an inquiry as to the reason. The law of Moses only requires fasting on the Day of Atonement. John the Baptist was in prison, therefore it is clear as to why his disciples were fasting.

2. Christ's answer (vv. 19, 20).

He declared that the children of the bride chamber could not fast as long as they had the bridegroom with them. The joy of present companionship with Christ prevented their fasting. This shows that Christ is the real source of joy. He recognizes that when the bridegroom was absent, there was occasion for fasting. Christ is now away, therefore fasting is permissible. In times of great need the early church fasted. Before sending out the first missionaries they fasted and prayed (Acts 13:1, 2). More fasting and less feasting would be helpful today in the ordination of Christian workers.

III. The Christian's Relation to the Sabbath (Mark 2:24-28).

The disciples were charged with lawlessness because they plucked ears of corn as they walked through the fields on the Sabbath day. In Christ's defense against this charge, He

1. Cites a precedent (v. 26).

It was the case of David, their great king, who in time of need ate the shewbread which was only lawful for the priests. The principle set forth is that the higher law of human need warranted David in doing this which was out of the regular line of duty and privilege.

2. Showed the nature of the Sabbath law (v. 27).

The Sabbath was made for man, therefore its right use is determined by what it contributes to man's good. The Sabbath should not be man's cruel master, but his helpful servant.

3. Jesus is Lord of the Sabbath (v. 28).

It was He who instituted it when creation was finished; therefore He had the right to use it as it pleased Him for man's good.

IV. The Need of a Vacation (Mark 6:30-32).

The tragic death of John the Baptist had just occurred, and the disciples had just returned from a strenuous missionary tour. Christ, perceiving their need, invited them to come apart with Him for a time of rest. It is a grave mistake to assume that because we are engaged in the Lord's work and the need is so urgent that a vacation can be dispensed with.

V. Jesus Attending a Wedding (John 2:1-11).

This is a striking sidelight on the spirit of Christ. A marriage feast was graced by His presence. In this act He set a mark of honor upon marriage, which is the most joyous of earth's occasions. In this act man's holy Redeemer lifted the holy ordinance of marriage into its dignity and beauty. In the course of the feast, when the wine was exhausted, He wrought His first miracle rather than have its festivities marred.

A RESOLUTION

The following resolution was introduced, its adoption moved and seconded and put to a vote, Aldermen L. C. Proby, J. P. Pressgrove, W. E. Jackson, J. H. Murray voting for its passage, there being no votes against same, and Aldermen E. C. Neelly, H. L. Honeycutt being absent and not voting, it was declared duly adopted and ordered entered on the minutes as follows:

A resolution declaring the paving with concrete of that certain alley in the East Ward of the City of Grenada, running from Green Street to Main Street and bounded on the North by lots 99 and 100, and on the South by lots 109 and 110, according to plans and specifications adopted by this Board and on file with the City Recorder, to be necessary and looking to a special assessment against the abutting property for the purpose of paying two-thirds of the cost and expenses of said improvement, etc.

Be it resolved by the Board of Mayor and Aldermen of the City of Grenada, Miss.

Section 1. That it is deemed, adjudged and hereby declared that it is necessary to pave with concrete that certain alley located in the East Ward of Grenada, Grenada County, Mississippi, running from Green Street to Main Street and bounded on the North by lots 99 and 100 and on the South by lots 109 and 110. Said paving shall be done according to plans and specifications therefor prepared by W. E. Johnson, engineer, and adopted by the Board and now on file in the office of the Recorder of said City.

Section 2. That in the judgment of the said Board of Mayor and Aldermen the general improvement fund of this city should not be used for the purpose of making said special improvements and is also insufficient for said purpose, and said improvements shall be made by special assessments against the property abutting on said alley on its North side and on its South side as follows: one-third of the cost and expenses of making said improvements shall be assessed against the property constituting lots 99 and 100 on the North side of said alley, and one-third of the cost and expenses of said improvements shall be assessed against the property constituting lots 109 and 110 on the South side of said alley, and the remaining one-third of said cost and expenses shall be paid by the City. Assessments against the property abutting on said alley for the payment of the portion of said cost and expenses chargeable against said abutting property shall be assessed upon the following basis and in the following manner, to-wit: By taking the whole number of front feet improved and dividing two-thirds of the total cost of the whole improvement thereby and multiplying the quotient by the number of feet front contained in such abutting lot or piece of ground, the result being assessable by the Board as the amount of the special tax to be assessed against each lot or piece of ground, respectively, as provided by law.

Section 3. That said Board will meet at the Mayor's office in said city on November 4, 1929, at 7:30 p. m. and will, at said meeting, hear and determine any objection or remonstrance that may be made to said improvements, and will also hear and determine any objection or protest against said improvement which may be presented by any person aggrieved or interested, and if a majority of property owners actually residing on property owned by them in said lots 99, 100, 109 and 110 shall protest against said improvements, same will not be made.

Section 4. That this resolution be published in The Grenada Sentinel in its issues of October 18th, October 25th and November 1st, 1929, and that it take effect and be in force from and after passage.

LET BISHOP'S SPONSORS CHEW THIS FOR A WHILE

It may be that views held by Bishop Marvin of the Methodist church are "out of date" and that the life he lived and the standards he insisted on are "old fog" for some of the Methodists of the present day, but anyway, The Sentinel is giving a succinct statement of Bishop Marvin's about the political parson which will give Bishop Cannon's sponsors something on which to chew when they have some meditative moments. Here is what he said; it is good reading:

First—It renders the ministry of the Church unacceptable and unattractive to all who may be of the opposite faction.

Second—It destroys the fact and consciousness of consecration in the pulpit. It induces a secular character in men who ought to be wholly devoted to God and His cause. In the case of ordained Methodist preachers, who have solemnly promised to give themselves wholly to "this one thing," it is a gross violation of vows.

Third—It breaks up that concentration which is an essential condition of the highest success in the Christian ministry. A divided mind can not bring the full measure of its force to bear on any one subject. When God appropriates any man for His work, that work suffers in the measure of the diversion of personal force upon any other object.

Fourth—Even amongst politicians, though they may be of his own stripe, the political preacher has, to say the least of it, an equivocal reputation. They may flatter him for the sake of the influence he has with his people, but the Gospel from his lips will do them no good. The sanctity of his calling ceases to attach to his person, however sanctimonious he may be. The ministry, the Church, and even religion itself, comes in to bad odour through this means.

Fifth—Its effect in actual character is bad. The trade of the politician is often demoralizing—But the country needs good men in office! Yea, verily. But that end will never be secured by the participation of the Church and the ministry in popular politics. She will only drag her garments in the mud by such a course—The Church can work toward a purer condition in public life only in an indirect way—by preaching the Gospel, and thus increasing the prevalence of Christian morals at large. It is not by preaching politics, and coming down to the strife of potsherd, but by simply preaching Christ, that the ministry can accomplish any permanent good, either in this or any other field.

Sixth—Ecclesiastics make the worst politicians in the world. It may be difficult to account for this, but it is certainly true. We do not say that the devoted Christian does not make a good statesman. The enlightened Christian conscience is a high qualification for statesmanship. But we do say, that when ministers of religion try their hand at statesmanship, they always make a botch of the business. God never intended them for this service. Their standpoint is not favorable for it. It is altogether unfavorable in a country where the Church exists, as it must always where there is any liberty, in the form of distinct denominations.

Seventh—When Churches enter into politics bad men will seek connection with them for the sake of their influence. The Church will and must become corrupt in such a state of things.

Eighth—The Church is the bride of Christ. She is debauched by political alliances. They are a breach of her marital vows. Her purity is lost when she goes after other lovers.

SCOUT MEETING

The Girl Scouts of Troop 2 met Thursday afternoon after school in the high school basement with their captain, Fay Gunn. After the usual flag ceremony a play called "How the Girl Scouts Laws Were Written." Gloria Williams, the little Brownie Betsie Neely, as Robin Hood, Adelaide McCaslin, Ruth Kirk, Clausell Hollimon, Ruth Jackson, Caroline Provine, Nina Grace Cunningham, Jessie Curr, Louise McCaslin, a little Dutch girl. After the play a hike was planned for Saturday afternoon.

Saturday afternoon at 2:30 about forty girl scouts met at the grammar school with their captain, and hiked about a mile and a half out the Greenwood road and had games and singing some of the tenderfoots passed their test and Miss Gunn gave instructions on knot-tying, fire building and craft signs. After this we had a delightful dinner spread under the trees. We also had instructions on how to hike, always on the left side of the road and fall in single file meeting and passing vehicle. We arrived home at dark, a good time was had by all. Margaret Parker, Scribe.

Doctors Disagree

When children are irritable and peevish, grind their teeth and sleep restlessly, have digestive pains and disturbances, lack of appetite, and have itching eyes, nose and ears, doctors will not always agree that they are suffering from worms. Many mothers, too, will not believe that their carefully brought up children can have worms. The fact remains that these symptoms will yield, in a great majority of cases, to a few doses of Worm Cream Vermifuge, the sure expeller of round and pin worms. If your child has any of these symptoms, try this harmless, old-fashioned remedy, which you can get at 35c per bottle from School News, Grenada High The Grenada High School is moving along nicely from all angles. Friday marked the close of the first month. Each grade has been organized into a club. The names of the clubs are as follows:

10th grade, Forum; 9th grade, Literary Gem; 8th grade, Excelsior; 7th grade, Booker T. Washington; 6th grade, Rockefeller Aid; 5th grade, Beacon Lights; 4th grade, Roland Hayes; 3rd grade, Busy Bee; 2nd grade, Shining Stars; Primary No. 1, Rogers' Lambs; Primary No. 2, Sunshine.

These clubs are working to promote the welfare of the school. Much good has already been accomplished.

Another great feature has been added to county teachers' association. Each meeting will be accompanied by an interesting program. The first program will be rendered in the next meeting. It is as follows: Music by the glee club of the high school, Devotion by Rev. M. R. Moze. Discussion: Subject: "How May a Teacher Interest Children of the First Three Grades in Health Habit?" Led by Mrs. Anna Applewhite.

Preaching was had at Swain Chapel M. B. Church last Sunday. Rev. J. W. Miller, Leflore pastor, conducting the service. A number of leading church workers were present at the services.

MRS. RAY ADDRESSES BUSINESS MEN'S CLUB

Mrs. H. J. Ray, one of Grenada's most prominent women and one who has always take a very active interest in everything for the good of the community, was the speaker at the luncheon of the Young Men's Business Club last Thursday. Mrs. Ray enjoys the distinction of being the first woman to address the organization.

Mrs. Ray said that she was invited to speak to the club and offer any suggestions which she thought might aid the organization in carrying out its program of making a better Grenada. She said that she would offer only one suggestion and that was that the club name a committee to assist newcomers in finding homes and apartments in Grenada. She cited numerous recent instances of families wanting to locate here and having to go elsewhere since they could not find places to live.

Mrs. Ray also mentioned the desire of various citizens of Grenada that a white way be placed on Main Street and she gave it as her belief that the Young Men's Business Club could accomplish this with a little effort on the part of the members. Another matter discussed by Mrs. Ray and one of importance, especially to the business interests, was the great number of beggars to be seen from time to time on the streets of Grenada. She said that if the business men would support the local King's Daughters circle, the circle would handle all charity cases and that it had the facilities to make investigations of each case to determine whether or not it was worthy of charity. She pointed out the good done by the King's Daughters here and said that it was deserving of every bit of support accorded it.

What Mrs. Ray said contained much food for thought upon the part of the business men and her remarks no doubt will bear fruit at an early date.

A committee, consisting of J. T. Keator, Jay Gore, T. H. Meek, L. C. Proby, O. L. Kimbrough and L. Friedman, was named to serve with the club officers as an advisory board with power to act for the club. The glad hand was extended him. Mr. Roper made a fine impression here on all who had the good fortune to get to know him. He is delightfully companionable and is chock full of his work, a very highly essential thing to the success of any enterprise or undertaking. He knows what he is about and proceeds to his task with an intelligence and an energy that gives one to understand that things which stand between him and the point he is endeavoring to reach had best stand aside.

TRI-STATES EDITOR HERE Eugene Roper of Commercial Appeal Visits Fair.

Mr. Eugene Roper, Tri-States editor of the Commercial Appeal, accompanied by Miss Nelson, also of the Commercial Appeal force, drove to Grenada Wednesday to visit the North Mississippi Fair. On reaching Grenada, Mr. Roper sought The Sentinel office where fight to win the game. Fair are the Wildcat Aggies with whom we will exchange fair nothings during a fair day (we hope). Our fair tribe will be at the fair grounds of Grenada bright and early Friday afternoon. At one o'clock we will proceed to the fair ground, where we will dig down in our jeans to produce our fair—Every thing is fair, so on the fair, and have a fair time.

This week the boys with Coach Hathorn have been working hard to give Charleston a black eye if possible. We have lost 3 games out of 4, but why should we quit? The future is still bright. If our boosters will help us win this game today we will still have a chance for the championship of this district.

LLOYD LOTT, Manager

at least for the time being.

Grenada appreciates Mr. Roper's visit. The fair management appreciates the interest of the Commercial Appeal in the fair as evidenced by Mr. Roper's visit and in numerous other ways.

He is just a man's man. The writer, in greeting him, said to him that he is much younger than he thought and that he really expected to see a more venerable looking man; but he would not have one infer that Mr. Roper's conduct does not square with venerableness, yet in absolute frankness and in justice to him, it should be said that venerableness is not his long suit. However, he's growing in that direction.

Miss Nelson showed herself to be an equally important factor in her line. As the kids say in their school ground and street phraseology, she "knows her onions". The Sentinel desires to have her, too, to understand that the fair management and the community appreciates her visit. The latch string is always on the outside to Mr. Roper and Miss Nelson or to any others of the Commercial Appeal news gathering force.

SQUIRREL SUPPER ENJOYED

The Men's Bible class of the Presbyterian church enjoyed a delicious squirrel supper Friday evening at 7 o'clock in the church dining room.

Vases of gorgeous dahlias were used in decorating each of the four tables, at which approximately 70 guests were seated. Roses and smaller dahlias were also placed about the room.

Mr. Shade Steele presided as toastmaster in a witty and pleasing manner. Splendid short talks by Messrs. Keene Huffington, W. B. Hoffa, John Brown Owens, Hurd Horton, J. M. Talbert and Claud Gibson added to the evening's entertainment.

The feature of the program was a talk on "One Man Power" by Dr. Smylie, of Evergreen Presbyterian church of Memphis. Two musical selections, a duet, "One Alone," by the Rev. R. L. McLeod and Mr. William Wright and a solo, "On the Road to Mandalay" by the former were beautifully rendered. Both were skillfully accompanied by Miss Catherine Lufkin, pianist, and Mr. Frank Hubert, saxophonist.

Mrs. J. E. Lufkin had charge of the supper and the one hundred deliciously barbecued squirrels and other delicacies bespoke most eloquently her culinary art and that of the other ladies of the church who so capably assisted her.

The men's class is one of the strongest organizations of the church, with Mr. Will Martin, as president, and Mr. A. M. Carothers, teacher. At present they are assisting in sending a boy to a theological college and are supporting two orphans.

BOARD OF SUPERVISORS

"One day while working in the fields, it dawned upon me that if I was ever to get ahead I must PUT MONEY TO WORK."—John D. Rockefeller.

What did Rockefeller mean by "PUT MONEY TO WORK" (which was what he learned he must do to "get ahead")?

Just this—he discovered that by INVESTING $50 it would earn as much money each year as he himself could get for a week's work. That's the way to put money to work—INVEST IT.

The dictionary says "investing" means "to place money so that it will be safe and yield more money."

And that's just what hundreds of customers of the power company and other local people are doing. They have "placed money" in Mississippi Power & Light Co. There it is "safe and yields more money" every three months. They own shares of Mississippi Power & Light Company's stock—PREFERRED stock, which yields them 6% on each dollar they invested.

You would be entitled to receive $60.00 a year from Mississippi Power & Light Co. if you owned only 10 shares of this Preferred Stock. $60.00 a year is $5.00 a month and you would have increased your earnings by just that much and—consider this carefully—it would be money you would not have to do a tap of work for.

Your SAVINGS, the money you INVESTED, would have done the work and turned the wages earned over to you.

Entertains for B. Y. P. U.

Mrs. A. N. Rayburn entertained on last Thursday evening from 8 to 10:30 o'clock in honor of the Senior B. Y. P. U. She was graciously assisted by Mrs. G. W. Jennings.

The house decorations were dahlia, chrysanthemums and ferns.

As the guests arrived they were served refreshing punch by Misses Georgia and Addie Chapuis, who were daintily evening gowns of lavender and yellow georgette.

A number of games were played, the favorites being "Romance" and "The Writing of Love Letters." Partners for the first game were secured by matching verses of scripture which had been cut in half. In writing the love letters they were divided into five groups. Group number four was declared winner and presented a box of "bubble chewing gum" as a reward.

Mrs. Rayburn, who was a most charming hostess, was dressed for the occasion in pink georgette. Mrs. Jennings wore a becoming model of black velvet.

After the games a delicious salad course with hot chocolate was served the thirty guests who were present. Throughout the evening music over the radio aided in making the affair a thoroughly enjoyable one.

Honors Visitor.

A most attractive party was the afternoon bridge at which Mrs. Paul LaGrone entertained on Tuesday in honor of Mrs. Carl Nichols, her charming house guest. Her apartment on Main Street, where the party was given, was brightened by a graceful arrangement of autumn flowers.

Mrs. W. A. McCool was most successful at the spirited games, and she was awarded a hammered silver smoking set. Consolation prize, individual ash trays, decorated with bridge emblems, was cut by Miss Catherine Lufkin. To the honoree Mrs. LaGrone presented a pretty lavender satin pillow.

Later a tempting salad course was served the following guests: Mrs. Nichols, Mrs. J. H. Boosey, Mrs. John Bradley, Mrs. W. A. Campbell, Mrs. J. E. Rumble, Mrs. Shade Steele, Mrs. Ben Graham, Mrs. Bob Counts, Mrs. W. E. Roberts, Mrs. I. O. Pearson, Jr., Mrs. W. A. McCool, Mrs. Donald Sharp, Mrs. George Garner, Mrs. Ben Perry, Jr., and Misses Daisy Leigh Roane and Catherine Lufkin.

Hallowe'en Party.

A typical Hallowe'en party was given last Saturday night by Mrs. E. G. Mohler for the junior choir of the Methodist church, of which she has charge.

The decorations were in keeping with the spirit of the hour, covered lights casting a weird glow over all, and goblins and witches peeping out from unexpected corners. The guests, about 40 in number, were dressed in Hallowe'en costumes.

The usual games and contests were enjoyed. Miss Bessie Phelan Sharp, disguised as an old witch, foretold the future of each guest present.

A visit to "Spookville" was a feature of the evening's entertainment. An intensive search for the spooks finally revealed them concealed in the barn uttering horrible sounds. The spooks proved to be the Rev. E. G. Mohler and Vassar Dubard, Jr.

Ice cream cones were served later to spooks, goblins and ghosts, n'all, proving that they, even as real girls and boys, like good things to eat.

Twelfth Birthday.

Miss Undine Brewer celebrated her twelfth birthday last Friday evening with an enjoyable party at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Brewer, on Line Street.

Several diverting games were enjoyed during the evening. Mrs. Brewer created a great deal of amusement by her clever impersonation of an old man.

Lovely gifts from her family and friends added to the honoree's happiness.

Later delicious ambrosia and cakes were served.

The guest list included: Louise Woods, Betty Jeanne Dulweber, Kahleen Workman, Jessie Kerr, Marjorie Williamson, Miriam Boushe, Margaret Boosey, Claude Holliman, Modelle Betz, Catherine Brewer, Earl Johnston, Frank Horton, Joe Neely, Charles Pope, Tim Perry and Samuel Brewer.

Mr. J. T. Gum was called to Houston, Texas Tuesday night on account of the sudden death of his brother, Mr. A. H. Gum. The sympathy of the community goes out to Mr. Gum in his bereavement. He expects to return to Grenada the latter part of the week.

Dr. and Mrs. J. S. Sharp and attractive daughter, Lucy Webb, were Memphis visitors last week.

Honors Mrs. Counts.

Mrs. John Pressgrove was hostess last Thursday afternoon at a two table bridge party, honoring Mrs. Bob Counts, of Charleston, N. C.

Beautiful pink roses artistically decorated the living room of her home where she received her guests.

The honoree was attractive in a blue crepe afternoon dress.

After the games an appetizing hot plate lunch was served.

Those who enjoyed the afternoon with the gracious hostess and honoree were: Mrs. Ben Graham, Mrs. Henry Pope, Mrs. Shade Steele, Mrs. Bryan Revell, Mrs. Ray Tatum, Mrs. J. K. Avent and Mrs. E. R. Proudfoot.

Mrs. Paul Sisk and little daughter, Cherry, motored up Friday from their home in Durant to see Mrs. Bruce Newsom. They also visited relatives in Oxford, coming back Sunday to again visit Mrs. Newsom. Mr. Sisk came up on the train and returned to Durant with Mrs. Sisk and Cherry.

Mr. Austin McCaslin, who is attending "Ole Miss" this session spent the week-end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. McCaslin.

Mrs. Nichols Honored.

Among the attractive parties which have been given in honor of Mrs. Carl Nichols, of Pace, during her week's visit in Grenada was the dinner given Sunday evening by Mrs. W. E. Roberts. A delicious four-course dinner was served the following: Mrs. Nichols, Mr. and Mrs. Paul LaGrone, Mr. Harold McGrath and Mr. W. E. Roberts.

On Monday evening Mrs. Roberts again entertained for Mrs. Nichols, at a delightful bridge party. At the conclusion of the games a lovely plate was served. The following guests enjoyed the evening's pleasures with the honoree and Mrs. Nichols: Mrs. Roberts, Mr. and Mrs. John Bradley, Mr. and Mrs. Paul LaGrone and Mrs. Joe Rumble.

Another of the charming courtesies extended to Mrs. Nichols was the bridge luncheon given Wednesday by Mrs. Ben Brown. Mrs. Nichols was dressed for the occasion in a pretty figured crepe. A delectable three-course luncheon was served. Besides Mrs. Brown and Mrs. Nichols those who completed the table of bridge were Mrs. W. E. Roberts and Mrs. Paul LaGrone.

Mrs. LaGrone complimented Mrs. Nichols on Wednesday afternoon with a two-table bridge party. She used as decorations pretty gift bouquets of dahlia and marigolds. The honoree was attractively gowned in a frock of navy blue chiffon. Later in the afternoon Mrs. LaGrone served a delicious salad course. The guest list included: Mrs. H. H. Heath, Mrs. E. E. Penn, Mrs. Ben Brown, Mrs. John Dulweber, Mrs. Joe Rumble and Mrs. W. E. Roberts.

Mrs. J. H. Oliver left Monday to spend several days in Memphis. Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Sharp, Mary Ida and Bobby, and Mr. Charlie Wardlaw spent Sunday in Oxford as the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Herron Rowland and family.

Miss Virginia Jane Bass, who is going to school at Mississippi Synodical College in Holly Springs, spent last week-end at home. Her friend, Miss Elizabeth Rolston, of Harrisburg, Va., who is also attending M. S. C., was with her.

Miss Chloe Lufkin, who is attending M. S. C. W., spent the week-end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Lufkin.

Mrs. John Huffington left last Friday for Memphis where she spent several days as the guest of Mr. and Mrs. George Fisher and family.

Mr. Bobby Jones, of Memphis, visited his mother, Mrs. G. B. Jones, during the week-end.

Mrs. A. P. Guntharp, of McComb, arrived the first of the week to visit her sister, Mrs. W. W. Garner.

Mrs. G. W. Jennings and mother, Mrs. J. A. Breckinridge, spent Sunday in Oxford with their sister and daughter, Mrs. Ray Mosby, and her family.

Miss Blanche Winter arrived Sunday to visit relatives and friends in Grenada. She has been spending some time in California.

Mrs. J. W. Jordan, of Aberdeen, was the guest this week of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Austin.

Miss Lynn Dunavant was a visitor to Jackson last week-end.

Mr. Joe Harding, of Little Rock, spent Sunday in Grenada. He was en route to Memphis. Mr. Harding formerly worked here, and he was gladly welcomed by his many friends.

Grenadians are delighted that Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Lane and children, Jacqueline and Hector, who have been living in Greenville have returned to Grenada to live. Mr. Lane has resumed his former position as agent for the express company. Mr. Dan Riordan, who took Mr. Lane's place here while he was in Greenville, has been transferred to Vicksburg. He left the first of the week, and Mrs. Riordan joined him later.

The Baptist Missionary Society met Monday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock at the church. Mrs. John Rundle discussed in the most interesting manner the Bible lesson which was taken from the book of Ezekiel.

Mr. and Mrs. George Granberry, and family of Greenwood, spent the week-end with Mrs. B. F. Thomas.

Mr. James Russell Lockett, who is attending Sunflower County Agricultural High School at Moorhead, visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Lockett, and family last week-end.

Misses Elise Lockett and Catherine Lufkin took him back to Moorhead through the country Sunday.

Miss Lillian McGrath spent last week-end with friends in Jackson.

Miss Josephine Johnson, of Holly Ridge, Miss., who is going to school at All Saint's College in Vicksburg, was the guest last week-end of Miss Elizabeth Mohler.

Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Strain, of Tupelo, were the guests last week-end of Mr. and Mrs. I. M. Stevens.

Mr. Jewel Bowen, of Winona, enjoyed a visit during the week-end with his sister, Mrs. G. W. Lambert.

Observing Charm Week.

"Charm School" week is being observed at the college with Miss Sophie P. Alston, capable director of the home economics course, in charge. Talks on good manners were made yesterday morning and this morning at chapel by Miss Alston. There will be another talk in the morning.

Tomorrow evening there will be a formal dinner in the college dining room, at which one half of the student body will dress as boys and escort the girls. Following the dinner a program will be given in the auditorium for which a small admission fee will be charged. This program has always been one of the best presented during the year and an especially interesting one has been planned for Saturday.

Buffet Supper.

Mrs. Cowles Horton was hostess at an elegant buffet supper Saturday evening at 7 o'clock in her home on Margin Street. Marigolds were attractively used in decorating, a pretty bowl of them forming the centerpiece on the dining table.

An interesting evening of music and conversation followed. Besides the members of the family those who were privileged to share Mrs. Horton's hospitality were: the Rev. and Mrs. R. L. McLeod, Mrs. Laura S. Jones, Miss Lizzie Horn, Miss Katie Mae Dear, Miss Lenore Coney, Miss Mary Lou Diggs, Miss Allie Ramsey, Miss Addie H. Barrow and Miss May Boswell.

Mrs. Nichols Honored.

Mrs. Carl Nichols, of Pace, was honored at a lovely three-table bridge party given Tuesday evening by Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Rumble in their attractive apartment on Line Street.

Mr. W. E. Roberts held highest score, and he was awarded a double deck of cards. To the honoree, who was attired in a smart fall model of black crepe, several dainty handkerchiefs were presented.

A delectable salad course was served at the close of the pleasant affair.

The guest list included: Mr. and Mrs. Shade Steele, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Roberts, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Horn, Mr. and Mrs. Paul LaGrone and Mrs. John Bradley.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Sharkey Campbell, Jr., of Webb, spent Tuesday and Tuesday night in Grenada with Mrs. Campbell's mother, Mrs. G. W. Lambert.

Mr. and Mrs. D. P. Wilson were "at home" last Friday evening to the other members of the Grenada College faculty. Various contests were enjoyed for a while and then the guests were served a delicious salad course.

Messrs. Redding and Borroughs, of Pace, visited friends in Grenada Monday.

Mrs. Homer Weir and little daughter, Alice Margaret, and Mary Douglas Honeycutt went to Memphis Saturday to see Mary Douglas' mother, Mrs. H. L. Honeycutt, who is ill in the hospital there. Mrs. Honeycutt's many friends regret that it was necessary for her to return to Memphis and trust her condition will be such that she may soon return home.

Mr. and Mrs. Vassar Dubard went to Jackson last week-end to see their son, David Young, who is attending Millsaps College. They were there for the Millsaps-Mississippi College game.

Mr. Rice Pressgrove, Jr., was a visitor to Jackson the latter part of last week.

Mrs. Ella Dove, of Abilene, Texas, is enjoying a visit with her son and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Dove, on Commerce Street. She will probably be here until Christmas.

Mr. O. H. Roberts, of Jackson, spent Thursday in Grenada with relatives.

Messrs. Thomas Brown and Sayle Pittman, of Coffeeville, were Grenada visitors Tuesday.

Those admitted to the Grenada Hospital since last Wednesday are: Mrs. J. N. Estes, city; Mr. E. P. Franklin, Charleston; Mrs. Jake Seigel, city; Mrs. J. T. Blackston, Coffeeville; Ray Gillon, city; Mrs. Sam McCorkle, Carrollton; Mrs. W. S. Van Osdal, city.

Misses Mary Virginia Culley, of Greenville, Mabel Coleman, of Hollandale, Anne Westerfield, of Columbia, and Mr. Carol Culley, of Greenville, came down to Grenada last Sunday from "Ole Miss", where they are going to school, with Mr. Robertson Horton to see Mr. and Mrs. Cowles Horton. Mrs. Horton served them a delicious supper Sunday evening.

Miss Lorena Roberts drove over from Tupelo Sunday with Mr. Bill Tolman to see her brother and sister, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Roberts.

Miss Caroline Bryson, of Oakland, and Mr. Malcolm Souter, of Rosedale, visited friends in Grenada Sunday.

Mrs. E. L. Gerard had as her guests last week-end her daughter, Mrs. Paul Gerard, who is teaching in Cleveland, her son, Mr. William Gerard, of Jackson, and Mrs. P. B. Woolard, of Cleveland.

Mrs. Carl Nichols and little son, Malcolm, of Pace, are the attractive guests this week of Mrs. Paul LaGrone.

Mrs. Tatum Entertains.

Mrs. Bob Counts, of Charleston, N. C., who has been the recipient of so many lovely courtesies during her visit with Mrs. Ben Graham, was again honored on Monday evening at a picture show party given by Mrs. Ray Tatum.

Mrs. Counts was becoming gowned in a black crepe frock with harmonizing accessories. After seeing a very entertaining picture the party went by Dyre-Kent's for refreshments.

The guests were: Mrs. Counts, Mrs. Ben Graham, Mrs. C. B. Huggins, Mrs. F. S. Hill, Mrs. L. O. Pearson, Jr., Mrs. Alney McLean and Mrs. Donald Sharp.

Entertains Class.

Miss Elizabeth Holder entertained very enjoyably Monday afternoon for her Sunday School class, the first year junior boys.

Games were played on the church lawn and later sandwiches, cakes and cold drinks were served.

Those present were: John Rundle, Joe Steele, John Preston Biddy, Harold Biddy, Bobby Sharp, Frank Tims, Duval Proudfoot, Francis Rose, Sidney Jackson, Charles Heath, Donald Lockett, James Hardy Holder, Paul Lockett, and Miss Sallie Parnell, superintendent of the junior department.

Mr. Abe Blumenthal, known all over the state of Mississippi to the newspaper fraternity, was in Grenada for the fair this week.

Mrs. Joseph Hargraves and two children, of Hollandale, are guests this week of their sister and aunt, Miss Mary Goss.

One of the first visitors to reach Grenada for Homecoming Day Thursday at the fair was Hart Hood, of St. Louis. Mr. Hood made the trip to Grenada in his car. He is connected with one of St. Louis' leading dailies. It has been thirty years or more since Mr. Hood was here and that he was surprised and pleased at the remarkable changes in the city during that period goes without saying. He has been given a most glad welcome by his many old friends.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Arnold spent last week-end in Columbus visiting relatives.

Mr. W. G. Francis, superintendent of the Old Men's Home at Jackson, was in Grenada Monday in the interests of the institution.

REV. J. H. HOLDER CHAIRMAN

Rev. J. H. Holder, pastor of the Methodist church, has been named chairman of the local chapters to direct the thirteenth annual Red Cross Roll Call, which will be held from Armistice Day until Thanksgiving. The Red Cross program this year is much larger than heretofore and its expanded program means that a much greater response than usual will be necessary in the roll call.

Mrs. A. B. Holmes, national representative from Washington, was here last week giving attention to certain details necessary in organizing for the 1929 drive.

A NEW STOMACH FOR FEW CENTS

If you have indigestion, dyspepsia, heartburn, sour stomach, gas, bloating, or any other distressed feeling after eating, you will be delighted with what one dose of GORDON'S will do for you. GORDON'S is an antiseptic that promptly stops fermentation (souring of food), the thing that makes it so hard to successfully treat stomach troubles. It soothes and heals the stomach lining made raw by acid and poisons. It does not artificially stimulate digestion but puts the stomach in condition to do its work naturally—makes it like new.

Get a bottle from Dyre-Kent Drug Co., or other good druggists. If not satisfied, druggist will refund your money. Costs less than three cents a dose.

Miss Coffman Hostess.

Miss Lida Coffman entertained beautifully in her home on Line Street Friday at a delightful bridge luncheon.

Lovely fall blossoms were used in decorating the living room where the two tables were placed.

Those who were privileged to enjoy the delicious luncheon and the interesting games of contract bridge were: Mrs. E. L. Bass, Mrs. F. S. Hill, Mrs. Henry Pope, Mrs. Ben Perry, Jr., Mrs. C. B. Hugins, Mrs. R. C. Trusty, Mrs. Claude Gibson and Miss Elizabeth Jones.

Miss Faye Gunn, who has the distinction of being one of two Eagle Scouts in the state, is attending a scout training camp for officers at Slidell, La. this week. This camp lasts until November 4 and from there she will go to New Orleans to attend a National Girl Scout officers' convention. Miss Gunn, who is vice president of the Golden Eagle order of the South, expects to become an officer of girls' scout work. She has secured three weeks leave of absence from her scholastic duties at Grenada College, where she is a member of the senior class, to attend these important conferences.

Mrs. Chester Brown left Saturday for Charleston to be the guest of her sister, Mrs. John Pressgrove. Mrs. Pressgrove had driven over to spend the day in Grenada and Mrs. Brown accompanied her home. She will also visit in Memphis before returning to her home in Asheville, N. C. Mrs. Brown, who formerly lived in Grenada, has a host of friends here who were delighted to see her again. While here she was the guest of Mrs. Jack Brown and Mrs. C. H. Calhoun. She and Mrs. Calhoun also visited Mrs. Ed Brewer in Clarksdale and Mrs. Will McGehee in Greenville.

Mrs. Chester Brown Honoree.

Mrs. Chester Brown, of Asheville, N. C., was the charming honoree at a lovely tea given Saturday afternoon from three to five o'clock by Mrs. Frank York.

The attractive York home on Snider Street was a veritable bower of flowers, masses of chrysanthemums and dahlias together with airy ferns forming in the living room a beautiful setting for the receiving line.

The guests were greeted at the door by Mrs. C. H. Calhoun, who was becomingly gowned in green velvet, and presented to the receiving line which was composed of Mrs. York, beautifully attired in black chiffon; the honoree, Mrs. Chester Brown, handsome in an ibis satin gown; Mrs. E. E. Wilkins, of Duck Hill, in black crepe with touches of embroidery; Mrs. Jack Brown, in black lace over flesh chiffon; Mrs. Rice Pressgrove, mother of the hostess, in pink georgette beaded in pearls; and Mrs. John Pressgrove, of Charleston, who wore a model of egg-shell chiffon.

Inviting the guests into the dining room were Mrs. C. B. Hugins, gowned in lavender chiffon, and Miss Lena Elma McElwath, in red chiffon.

Upon entering the dining room the guests were greeted with a scene of unusual beauty and color, roses and lavender dahlias artistically carrying out the chosen color motif.

The table was covered with an exquisite madeira cloth. A silver basket held a profusion of lavender cosmos, around which pink tapers burned in handsome silver candelabra. The beautiful tea service was gracefully presided over by Mrs. Johnny Wylie in lavender chiffon and Miss Etta Turner, in blue crepe.

Mrs. S. H. Garner, in black georgette, Miss Spivey Kent, in green chiffon, Miss Ruth Corley, in pink georgette, Miss Lillian Perry in blue georgette heavily beaded in brilliants, and Miss Dot Perry, in peach taffeta, assisted in serving the tea, sandwiches, cakes and mints.

Mrs. Joe Brown, wearing black lace, and Mrs. Orman Kimbrough, in red taffeta, showed the guests from the dining room.

After the departure of the last guests those who formed the receiving line and those who assisted were served a delicious salad course.

Mr. Bill Eckert, of Louisville, Ky., arrived Monday to spend several days in Grenada.

The Methodist Missionary Society had an interesting program meeting Monday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. They met in the young people's assembly room in the Sunday School building with a good attendance. Circle No. 2 was in charge and Mrs. W. B. Waterman led the devotional.

Miss Corinne Laney read a leaflet on "Korean Homes". Mrs. E. H. Cunningham's talk on "Training Workers in Poland" was also thoroughly enjoyed. Mrs. R. A. McRee recited a poem which she had learned from her study of the Braille alphabet, showing what splendid progress she is making. A beautiful piano duet, "Adoration", was rendered by Mrs. R. H. Herring and Mrs. J. H. Holder.

Mr. H. D. Bowers spent several days the latter part of last week in Memphis, having gone up to see his sister, Mrs. Homer Williams. Sunday he and Misses Lucile Wilborne and Vera Smith, with Mr. Hazel Bowers, of Greenwood, again motored to Memphis to see Mrs. Williams.

Mr. Charles Edward Lockett was a visitor to Jackson last week-end. He combined business and pleasure, enjoying especially the state fair and the Mississippi-Mississippi College football game.

Mrs. J. B. Perry and son, Mr. Thomas Perry, visited relatives in Jackson the latter part of last week. Mrs. Perry remained until the first of this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Percy Neal, of A. and M. College at Starkville, visited Mrs. Neal's mother, Mrs. Grady Triplett, last week-end. They also visited Mrs. Neal's parents in Rome before returning to Starkville.

Mrs. J. A. Sandner, of Birmingham, and Mrs. J. B. Connell, of Montgomery, arrived Monday to visit Mrs. J. C. Wilson.

Mrs. E. W. Peters entertained at a most delightful dinner Friday evening at 6:30 o'clock in her home on Fourth Street. Beautiful dahlias were used in decorating. Those who enjoyed the delicious dinner and Mrs. Peters' hospitality were: Mrs. Johnny Wylie, Mrs. H. B. Miller and little daughter, Jeanette, Mrs. P. S. Irby, and Misses Lizzie Horn, Sallie Parnell and Ruth Corley.

Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Estes are receiving congratulations on the arrival of a lovely little daughter, whom they have named Carolyn for her maternal grandmother, Mrs. Joe Stevens. The young lady made her arrival at the Grenada Hospital Saturday morning.

Miss Helen Duncan Wilkins, who is teaching in D'Lo, visited her mother, Mrs. E. L. Wilkins, last week-end.

Mrs. Warner Estes and Mrs. Vera Etheridge spent last week-end in Memphis. Mrs. Estes, whose home is in Memphis, is enjoying a visit with the Townes family near Hardy.

Mrs. Lucile Hornor and children, Anna Lucile, Blanche and Eddie, Mrs. A. D. Turnage and Miss Frances Boush motored to Memphis Saturday and returned Sunday. While there they visited relatives and friends.

Miss Red Moffatt, of Clarksdale, who is teaching in Sardis, and Mr. Walter Dell Davis, of Kilmichael, who is teaching this year at Carthage, were Grenada visitors Sunday.

Mr. Ernest Spivey, a banker of Canton, was a visitor to Grenada Saturday.

Mrs. Tom Weir had as her guest Thursday of last week Mrs. John Quarles, of Helena, Ark. Mrs. Quarles remained to be in Grenada during the fair.

Mrs. E. L. Bass, Mrs. Bruce Newsom and Misses Martha Vance Smith, Mary Jane Newsom and Gloria Williams spent Saturday in Memphis, Gloria having gone up especially to see her mother, Mrs. Homer Williams who is recuperating at a hospital there following a rather serious operation.

Miss Amarie Ellison, of Montpelier, is the guest of Miss Mary Roane.

Miss Nernon Heath has returned to her home in Greenwood, after a visit with Miss Alma Acee.

Mr. Donald Wright, of the University, spent the week-end with his mother, Mrs. Genie Wright.

Miss Ione Peete left the latter part of the week for Gulfport where she will visit relatives and friends for a few months.

Miss Blanche Upshaw, who has been the guest of Mrs. R. B. Townes for the past few weeks, has returned to her home at Glendora.

Mr. and Mrs. Wormack Smith motored to Senatobia the latter part of last week and spent the week-end with relatives and friends at that place.

Mrs. W. T. Watson who has been visiting relatives and friends in Gadsden, Ala., for the past few weeks, returned home the latter part of last week, accompanied by her cousin, Mrs. George Hyden, and little daughter.

Dr. N. Cornick, who has been visiting his sister, Mrs. J. L. Acee, and other relatives since his return from Germany, is now with Dr. F. H. Smith of Greenwood.

Every one who brings an exhibit to this fair will get a ticket bearing a number. The fair will be formally opened about noon, Oct. 15, just after the parade. At that time all the numbers will be put into a box. A blindfolded girl will then draw a number from the box and whoever is lucky enough to match this number will get a free ride in an airship. All exhibits must be in by 10 o'clock Wednesday, October 15th.

Mrs. M. M. Ransom, who stopped over in Grenada several weeks ago on her return from a visit to her sister at Arlington, Tenn., to visit her daughter, Mrs. McLaughlin, left the latter part of last week for the home of her son, George, in Jackson.

The citizens of Grenada and vicinity will be pleased to know that they are going to have a tent show. The Mac Stock Company

PAINS Went Away

"I WAS very much run-down in health. I had a dreadful ache across the middle of my back. I had a dull, tired feeling, and I dreaded the thought of having to do my household tasks. I was tired when I got up in the morning. I got no rest from my sleep, and I was sleepy all day long."

"My husband got a bottle of Cardui for me. It was not long before I began to show a decided improvement. My strength began to return and I felt much more like myself. The sleepy spells gradually quit and the pains in my back and sides disappeared."

Mr. Sam Stein, of Greenwood, was a Sunday visitor in the City Beautiful.

Miss Eunice Holcomb, who has been stenographer and bookkeeper at this office for nearly two years, has gone to Greenwood to accept a similar position with the Lawrence Printing Co. Miss Holcomb is a very excellent young lady and can be relied upon to do her best at all times.

Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Fletcher, of Canton, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Nail, Akron, Ohio, and Mrs. H. P. Morgan, of Greenwood, were weekend guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Ladd.

Announcement is made by the pastor that Rev. J. H. Holder, presiding elder, will fill the pulpit at the Methodist church Sunday morning and evening and that the Fourth Quarterly Conference will be held on Monday.

Just Like An Ostrich

A medical authority says that a person who tries to cover up skin blemishes and pimples with toilet creams and powders is just as foolish as an ostrich that buries its head in the sand to avoid danger. Skin eruptions are nature's warning that constipation is throwing poisons into your blood stream and weakening your whole constitution. Remove the constipated condition and you will strengthen your system against disease and clear up your disfigured skin. The best way to do this is with a course of Lico-line, the vegetable medicine that acts naturally and easily, which you can get at CORNER DRUG STORE.

CHECK BUICK'S CHASSIS

- note its distinctive construction

.. then you'll know why more than 2,000,000 people have bought

BUICKS

The world-famous Buick chassis and Buick's smart new Bodies by Fisher! An unrivaled combination! Providing the highest degree of motor car performance and all-round motoring satisfaction, over the greatest number of miles!

The more thoroughly you compare Buick with other cars, the more clearly you will understand why more than 2,000,000 people have bought Buicks—why men and women are buying from two to five times as many Buicks as any other automobile priced above $1200—and why they have purchased more Buicks during the few weeks this brilliant new car has been on the market than in any like period in Buick history.

See the new Buicks and arrange to buy one. Six of the 14 luxurious body types, incorporating all the famous Buick superiorities, are available at prices ranging from $1225 to $1295, f. o. b. factory. All available on the extremely liberal General Motors Time Payment Plan.

Buick's 99-horsepower Valve-in-Head engine is the most powerful engine of its size in the world. It is famous, too, for unrivaled smoothness, economy and stamina. It incorporates such marked engineering advancements as counterweighted crankshaft with torsion balancer, carburetor heat control, positive pressure gas pump, and triple seals against wear.

Buick's Controlled Servo Enclosed Mechanical Brakes provide the most perfect control ever devised for any automobile. They are smooth, sure, silent in operation, and achieve positive results with minimum pedal pressure. And because they are enclosed—fully protected against dust, dirt and water—they insure maximum braking efficiency in any weather.

New, longer rear springs, in conjunction with four new Lovejoy Duo-draulic Shock Absorbers, impart a superlative degree of riding comfort. These two vital comfort factors work together in perfect harmony to check both bound and rebound over the roughest roads.

Buick's new frictionless steering gear imparts matchless steering ease throughout the entire turning range, while the new Buick Road Shock Eliminator absolutely prevents transmission of road jolts and jars to the driver's arms. Twin features which make a tremendous contribution to driving ease and roadability.

Buick's famous multiple-disc clutch, too, reveals marked superiorities. In addition to being far sturdier than those of conventional design, it imparts exceptional smoothness, due to its special facing which insures gentle, gradual engagement of the driving and driven surfaces.

Buick's famous torque tube serves two vitally important functions. It not only carries the driving thrust, leaving the rear springs free to cushion the car's progress, but also forms a major unit of the Buick chassis seal. Every moving part of the Buick chassis—from fan to rear wheels—is fully protected against dust, dirt and water, assuring maximum operating efficiency in any weather.

*The engine in the 124- and 132-inch Buicks develops 99 horsepower, and that in the 118-inch Buicks 80½ horsepower.

Mrs. Carson Writes From Philadelphia

The following letter, written from Philadelphia, is the second of four written by Mrs. George C. Carson, to her parents in Grenada, Dr. and Mrs. W. P. Ferguson. The letters describe Mrs. Carson's recent trip through the states and into Canada. The second missive follows:

After viewing more of our country's beautiful scenery, we reached Philadelphia—a big, roaring smoky city.

Today we enjoyed a sightseeing bus trip that landed us in beautiful Atlantic City, N. J., where thousands of people were enjoying the grand beach on the great Atlantic Ocean. It seemed to us the playground of the world. We talked to people there who had lived there since it was little more than a wind-swept waste of sand dunes. Atlantic City has a wonderful new convention hall conceived more than a score of years ago by its progressive Mayor, Mr. A. M. Ruffo, Jr. This wonderful convention hall was built at a cost of ten million dollars. It is located on the boardwalk between Georgia and Mississippi Avenues, occupies an entire city block, seats 40,000 persons in the main auditorium alone and presents a truly impressive picture. Its pipe organ is said to be the largest in the world. It has 32,000 pipes. The hall has a large space 90x200 that can be very quickly covered with a sheet of artificial ice for skating at any time. There are many wonderful features in this convention hall. It was a privilege and pleasure to view them.

Atlantic City is truly a wonderful city in many ways—a city where Nature has lavished her wealth. This resort registers on an average of twenty million visitors a year.

After seeing all there was to see, we returned to Philadelphia. We found it rather a dark, completed city owing to the fact that all the colored people who had been holding a National Elks Convention at Atlantic City, had preceded us in to Philadelphia and were having a most enjoyable time. Our attention was particularly centered on one of the old-time colored men with New Orleans, La. printed on the purple band that circled his pretentious white hat. We surely felt very much at home.

Now like all the colored people, we, too, were anxious to see the sights. It is indeed a quaint city and full of interest. It possesses that rare combination of being the shrine of American history and a thriving, typical, present day American city. Philadelphia is accessible in every direction. The structures that figured in American early history are preserved. We walked in and about the building where our great Declaration of Independence was signed in 1776. All about the city lies the evidence of early history, stirring days of the Revolutionary War. There is much besides in Philadelphia. It has many suburbs. Philadelphia has some great establishments that supply the world with ships, locomotives, street cars, hardware, leather and other essentials of present day times.

After a delightful stay, we are leaving for New York. It is early afternoon and we are crossing the Schuylkill and Delaware Rivers. We pass much unused acreage, some small towns. We note with some curiosity, the Eastern Pennsylvania Penitentiary where Al Capone, Chicago's underworld king, was imprisoned. Nearby we observed St. Mary's Catholic School for girls at Torresdale, Pa., also a school for colored girls.

We are now coming to Trenton on the Delaware, a typical river town, and then into pretty Elizabeth, N. J., and we finally reach the big Pennsylvania Station after going through a tunnel under the Hudson River and we are in New York City—the second largest city in the world.

I remembered a very dear, motherly Jewish lady who, years ago, resided in Grenada, a Mrs. Bernhardt. I found that only a short time ago, she had passed on at the age of 83, but found her son, Maurice, and daughter, Viola, here. They came to our hotel last evening and visited with us, and it seemed but yesterday that they were children in Grenada. They have developed into beautiful maturity, and I was very happy to renew the childhood acquaintance.

New York City, the American metropolis, is indeed a very remarkable city. There is so much to be seen, that few travelers really "do" New York. There are hundreds of famous places and many great sights to attract and interest the traveler that even residents of the city are frequently at a loss to show visitors all the sights. Our time being limited here, I can't tell you much; the Custom House stands on the site of the first trading post where Ft. Amsterdam was built, way back in 1626. At a glance, one sees that New York is presumably a city of sky-scrapers, such as the Pan American, Woolworth, Finger, Equitable, City Investing Building and the Cunard Building, costing over eleven million, and the famous Flatiron building.

We saw the family home of my great-grandparents, the first home they bought after landing in New York from London. Strange to say, it is still standing, but unoccupied and right next to Tom Payne's old home. The two look very queer, way down on Bleeker and Grove Streets in what is now the way down-town section, and in their time, was exclusive home property.

We view the statue of liberty holding an electric torch over 300 feet above the water. It's the highest beacon in the world, stands on a concrete base 90 feet square at the bottom and is a very impressive sight.

New York has wonderful bridges, such as Manhattan, Brooklyn, Queensboro, Williamsburg, High and Washington, none Andover, about 100 miles from them costing less than ten thousand. The New York Central Depot is a very large, spacious building, housing a continual rush of humanity every hour in the day. It's newer than the Pennsylvania Station.

We had breakfast at the Plaza Hotel, corner 59th and Fifth Avenue, where my great uncle and the Mitchells lived for several years prior to their death. We enjoyed taking pictures in and around Central Park, and then taxied up to the Metropolitan Museum. Here we could have remained a week and found more to see. It's one of the largest museums in this country and quite wonderful. Collections being worth millions of dollars are on exhibit there and specimens hundreds of years before Christ are on display.

Many private donations by such as J. Pierpont Morgan and other notables some filling an entire room, are of keen interest. A most wonderful jade collection given by a Mr. Bishop worth thousands of dollars, occupies an entire wing on one of the floors.

From here as we drive along, we view Columbia University, up Riverside Drive, along the scenic Hudson River starting at 72nd Street, with Jersey City on its west bank; we see many interesting sights. We returned via Fifth Avenue.

The weather is so delightful at this season of the year we decided to take a night train and arrive in Boston the next morning. It was a safe journey.

We enjoyed church services at the wonderful Mother Church of Christ Scientist. The church was filled to its capacity and we were indeed happy to give thanks to God for our safety and pleasant trip so far. In the afternoon we drove out to the home of Mary Baker Eddy, founder of the Christian Science Church. It is now used as a Benevolent Home. It is a two-story brick structure, stands on a knoll in the center of about fifteen acres, beautifully landscaped and giving one that harmonious sense of peace and quietude that was so characteristic of Mary Baker Eddy.

We find Boston a very quaint old city. The old harbor where the Boston Tea Party of American history was held, has been all filled in and rows and rows of massive brick and stone buildings stand upon its once much disturbed waters. It has an interesting Chinatown where the Tongs recently scrambled their affairs. We were shown where a noted street housed a set of Tongs on one side and the opposing Tongs lived on the other side. This street was so narrow you could almost shake hands with one across the street.

Boston seems to have shed much of her prudery in theatrical lines but has a wonderful censorship policy that still has a far-reaching effect. There is a delightful home environment—its educational facilities are fine, its being one of the first educational centers in the world and has now over 200 universities, colleges, normal and technical schools, the oldest being Harvard established at Cambridge in 1636.

The tourist season in beautiful New England is from May to November. Boston can boast of the homes of many notables such as Paul Revere, two of our presidents, John Adams and John Quincy Adams, American poets who had homes in Boston were Longfellow, Emerson, Lowell and Wendell Holmes. The old Granary burying ground has many notables lying beneath its sod, such as Paul Revere, the parents of Benjamin Franklin, and Elizabeth Goose (Mother Goose).

Boston and New England might well be called the birthplace of the American nation. Suburbary, the famous Way-side Inn of Longfellow's "Tales of Way-side Inn" built in 1686, is owned by Henry Ford. The famous Plymouth Rock, where the Pilgrim Fathers landed in 1620, stands as a memorial monument at Provincetown. Boston common and the great statehold are of great interest. Boston common is about five acres. It is a municipal public ground—the original frog pond has been preserved. It was laid out in the heart of the city for a training field and feeding cattle. In fact cattle did not cease to graze on it until the thirties of the nineteenth century. Every attempt to take away the Boston Common has been resisted and so it now stands out unique among public grounds.

Boston's only sky-scraper is the Custom House. The first Post Office in American colonies was established in Boston in 1639, and is now indicated only by a heavy tablet placed in the door-way of the Boston Globe building.

Boston's population is over one million and a half.

We will leave soon this historic city at the head of Massachusetts, Bay, and head toward Canada.

We left Boston at 8 a. m., leaving behind round houses, rock crushers, bakery companies, church steeples, Prospect Hill and traveled through short tunnels and we note the absence of cottages—all cheap places of the class that usually surround railroad stations are two story.

We reach Summerville in West Medford. We view wooded scenery, a beautiful lake surrounded by a ridge of hills leading to a 60 foot paved highway. Winchester—we find lumber manufacturing. We are now coming to Wilmington, Mass.

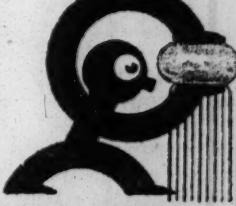

The scenery is quite pretty, around Walnut Hill, reminding me of that surrounding Mr. Will Mitchell's estate in Grenada.

Now we are coming into hills and valleys with acres of wild ferns interspersed with Mississippi's goldenrod, a beautiful sight.

Our next little town looks very much like Durant, Miss., with the

"Why, it is this," he cried, and there was real chagrin in his voice as there was in his heart. "In my mad madness to come hither. I never paused to count the cost. I am a Borgin captain, and at this moment no better than a traitor, a deserter who has abandoned his post and his conduct to go over to the enemy—to sit here and take my ease in the very castle that my duke is now besieging."

"By heaven, it had been a thousand times better had Tolentino made an end of me this morning as he intended!" Then he checked abruptly, and turned to her penitently. "Ah, no, no! I mean not that. Madonna! I spoke without reflecting. I am an ingrate to desire that—an ingrate and a fool. For had she killed me I had never known this day of happiness."

"Yet what is to be done?" she cried, crushing her hands together in her agony of mind. "What is to be done, my Enzo? To let you now depart would no longer save you. Oh, let me think, let me think!" And then, almost at once: "There is a way!" she cried; and in that cry, which had been one of gladness, she fell suddenly very gloomy and thoughtful.

"What way?" quoth he.

"I fear it is the only way," she said never so wistfully.

And then he guessed what was in her mind and repudiated the suggestion.

"Ah! Not that," he protested. "That way we must not think of. I could not let you—not even to save my life."

But on the word she looked up at him and her dark eye kindled anew with loving enthusiasm.

"To save your life—yes. That is cause enough to justify me. For nothing less would I do it, Enzo; but to save you—who I have brought into this pass—"

"What are you saying, sweet?" he cried.

"Why, that the fault is mine, and that I must pay the penalty."

"The fault?"

"Did I not bring you hither?"

He flushed, something ill at ease to see—as he supposed—his lie recalled upon him.

"Listen!" she pursued. "You shall do as I bid you. You shall go as my envoy to Cesare Borgin, and you shall offer him the surrender of San Leo in my name, stipulating only for the honors of war and the safe conduct of my garrison."

"No, no!" he protested still, and honestly, his villainy grown repugnant. "Besides, how shall that serve me?"

"You shall say that you knew a way to win San Leo and accomplish this—which," she added, smiling wistfully, "is after all, the truth. The duke will be too well content with the result to quarrel with the means employed."

He averted his face.

"Oh! But it is shameful!" he cried out, and meant not what she supposed him to mean.

"In a few days—in a few weeks," she reminded him. "After all, what do I sacrifice? A little pride, no more than that. And shall that weigh against your life with me? Better surrender now, when I have something to gain from surrender, than later, when I shall have all to lose."

He considered. Indeed, it was the only way. And, after all, he was robbing her of nothing that she must not yield in time—of nothing, after all, that it might not be his to restore her very soon, in part at least. Considering this, and what the duke had promised him, he gave her the fruit of his considerations, yet hating himself for the fresh deceit he practiced.

"Be it so, my Bianca," he said; "but upon terms more generous than you have named. You shall not quit your dwelling here. Let your garrison depart, but you remain!"

"How is that possible?" she asked.

"It shall be," he assured her confidently, the promised governorship in his mind.

CHAPTER V

THAT evening, with letters appointing him plenipotentiary, he rode out of San Leo alone, and made his way down into the valley by the bridge path. At the foot of this he came upon Della Volpe's pickets, who bore him off to their captain, refusing to believe his statement that he was Lorenzo Castrocero.

When Della Volpe beheld him, the warrior's single eye expressed at once suspicion and satisfaction.

"Where have you been?" he demanded harshly.

"In San Leo, yonder," answered Castrocero simply.

Della Volpe swore picturesque. "We had accounted you dead. My men have been searching for your body all day at the foot of the rock."

"I deplore your disappointment and the wasted labor," said Lorenzo, smiling; and Della Volpe swore again.

"How came you to fall, and, having fallen, how came you out alive?"

"I have not fallen," was the answer. "I am riding to the duke with the garrison's terms of capitulation."

to believe him, whereupon Messer Lorenzo thrust under the condottiero's single eye Madonna Bianca's letters. At that the veteran sneered unpleasantly.

"Ha! By the horns of Satan! I see! You ever had a way with the women, Lorenzo. I see!"

"For a one-eyed man you see too much," said Messer Lorenzo, and turned away. "We will speak of this again—when I am wed. Good night!"

"It was very late when he reached Urbino. But late as it was—long after midnight—the duke was not a-bed. Indeed, Cesare Borgin never seemed to sleep. At any hour of the day or night he was to be found by those whose business was of import.

His highness was working in the library with Agabito, preparing dispatches for Rome, when Messer Lorenzo was ushered into his presence.

He looked up as the young captain entered.

"Well," quoth he sharply. "Do you bring me news of the capture of San Leo?"

"Not exactly, highness," replied the condottiero. "But I bring you a proposal of surrender, and the articles of capitulation. If your highness will sign them, I shall take possession of San Leo in your name tomorrow."

The duke's fine eyes scanned the confident young face very searchingly. He smiled quietly.

"You will take possession?" he said.

"As the governor appointed by your highness," Master Lorenzo blandly explained.

He laid his letters before the duke, who scanned them with a swift eye, then tossed them to Agabito that the latter might con them more minutely.

"There is a provision that the Lady Bianca de' Fioravanti is to remain in San Leo," said the secretary, marveling.

"Why that?" quoth Cesare of Messer Lorenzo. "Why, indeed, any conditions?"

"Matters have put on a curious complexion," the condottiero explained. "Things went not smoothly with me as I had hoped. I will spare your highness the details; but, in short, I was caught within the castle walls, and—and I had to make the best terms I could under the circumstances."

"You did not, I trust, account them disadvantageous to yourself?" said Cesare. "It would distress me that it should be so. But I cannot think it; for Madonna Bianca is accounted very beautiful."

Castrocero crimsoned to his sudden and extreme confusion. For once he was entirely out of countenance.

"You are informed of the circumstances, highness?" was all that he could say.

Cesare's laugh was short and almost contemptuous.

"I am something of a seer," he replied. "I could have foretold this end ere you set out. You have done well," he added, "and the"

tured to inquire.

"What else? Where should I have found a man for whom the matter was less dangerous? He did not know that Madonna Bianca was there. I had the foresight to keep that matter secret. I sent him, confident that, should he fall to open the gates to Della Volpe and be taken, he was crafty enough not to betray himself, and Madonna must, of course, assume that it was her love-plunder that brought him to her irresistibly. Could she have hanged him, knowing that? Could she have done other than she has done?"

"Indeed, Corvinus has served you well."

"So well that he shall have his life. The precious poison has failed to kill him, and this is the sixteenth day." The duke laughed shortly, and thrust his thumb into the girdle of his robe, which was of cloth of gold, reversed with ermine. "Give the order for his release, tomorrow, Agabito. But bid them keep me his tongue and his right hand as remembrances. Thus he will never write or speak another lie."

San Leo capitulated on the morning. Tolentino and his men rode out with the honors of war, lance on high, the captain very surly at the affair, which he contemptuously admitted passed his understanding.

Into the fortress came then Messer Lorenzo Castrocero at the head of a troop of his own men to lay his governorship at the feet of Madonna Bianca.

They were met that very day in the chapel of the fortress, and although it was some years before each made to the other the confession of the deceit which each had practiced, the surviving evidence all shows, and to the moralists this may seem deplorable—that they were none the less happy in the meantime.

A MAIL ORDER STATE

Under the above caption the LeLand, (Miss.) Enterprise draws the very correct pen picture of a condition made possible by the patrons of the mail order houses:

"It would be interesting to see one of the states of the South settled by mail order people entirely and see what would happen to their state and their towns. The stores would stand as long as they could and then move away, banks would close their doors. The newspapers would have to quit. The hotels would go out of business. The mechanics would move away. Schools and churches dwindle, sidewalks go to wreck, buildings would become vacant, unpainted and dilapidated, strangers would take one look and flee. Isn't that precisely what would happen if an entire country were populated with people who bought everything in Chicago? Who would buy a farm so located that he could not drive to some sort of town? A sane man wouldn't take such land at half price. Be a friend to your town and it will be a friend to you."

NOTICE TO BIDDERS

Notice is hereby given that the Board of Mayor and Aldermen of the city of Grenada, Mississippi, will receive sealed bids for paving with concrete, according to plans and specifications prepared by W. E. Johnson, engineer, and on file with the City Recorder, of that certain alley in the East Ward of said city, running from Green Street to Main Street and bounded on the North by lots 99 and 100 and on the South by lots 109 and 110, at its regular November 4, 1929, meeting at 7:30 p. m. All bids to be filed with the City Recorder not later than 7:00 p. m. November 4, 1929, and each bidder to furnish certified check or deposit of $500.00 to guarantee good faith. PETITION FOR PARDON

To The Honorable Theo. G. Bilbo, Governor of the State of Mississippi:

We the undersigned citizens and taxpayers of the State of Mississippi, and more especially of Grenada County, hereby petition Your Excellency to grant a full and complete pardon unto Robert Joliff, who was convicted in the Circuit Court of Grenada County on a charge of Possession of Still and sentenced to serve a term of thirty months in the State Penitentiary, said sentence having been affirmed by the Supreme Court on the 18th day of February, 1929.

We believe the said Joliff has now atoned for any breach of the law to which he might have been a party; that he has met a good prisoner and his conduct in every respect has been exemplary; that if granted his freedom, we believe he will hereafter make the State an upright, law-abiding citizen, and for these reasons most earnestly request Executive Clemency at your hands.

Respectfully submitted,
E. L. Atkinson and Others

MRS. CARSON WRITES FROM PHILADELPHIA

exception that all of its buildings are most two story.

Now we come into Silver Lake, a very poor looking country, houses deserted, thickly wooded, with a few pretty, narrow streams now and then - lots of scrub pine and we pass south Billerica which seems only good for bull-frogs and snakes. It is very marshy and swampy. Now North Billerica seems a bit better.

We now see the outskirts of Lowell, Mass., and the beautiful Merrimac River. Our train is standing under a viaduct and the people are getting off at Lowell. We will proceed to Montreal, Canada, before getting off. Will arrive there at 6 p. m. standard time. They use two times in this country, standard and daylight. My husband keeps two watches - one in his standard pocket and one in his daylight pocket. Oh well, it wasn't for the Jews, the Irish and this double time, we might not have so much fun.

As we leave Lowell, we observe many buildings deserted and factory tenement houses unoccupied. We turn our attention to the Merrimac River, truly a beautiful sight. At our next stop we observe vegetables of all kinds growing nicely, lovely apple trees, beautiful little sail boats, sailing down the river.

We are now coming into New Hampshire and our attention is turned to several large estates similar to Mr. Borden's in Grenada. These estates are greatly enhanced by the beauty of the Merrimac River. The woods are filled with green, red, yellow and brown, lovely golf grounds.

We see a large Union Station in Nashua. Here we see large manufacturing plants making sash and doors, large foundries. It appears to be a good sized New England town - more substantial brick dwellings in evidence. We have now passed through the towns of Merrimac, Reed's Ferry and Gold's Fall into Manchester, N. H. Here the trees are all dolled up in their autumn clothing. All Nature seems happy. On one side of the Merrimac River a forest of short leaf pines - on the other side a general mixture of birch, maple and wild nuts.

We are now passing a huge concrete tile plant. A little farther on a man and woman shocking corn. The Merrimac River is still with us. It is said this beautiful river has turned more wheels of machinery than any river in the world. It's a bit shallow at this point showing tons of huge gray rock at intervals. Forest of pine on one side, cotton and corn on the other. Now the river appears on our left, with the rocks piled up like tiny little islands. Now it's deeper, and on its edges one sees apple orchards, corn and pole beans growing and we reach Manchester, N. H., a railroad division town. For the first time we notice a different type of people coming into the car. They are the laboring class and are French Canadians.

I look up and notice the roof just beside the windows. It's a railroad rain shed and its slates are fastened about every foot apart with round copper wire, twisted the size of a silver dollar - a very peculiar looking roof. All buildings are three or four story brick. Cotton and woolen mills on the canals, it's brick everywhere. Mansions along the hillsides in the distance - beautiful yacht houses along the river. We are moving onward to Concord, N. H. River scenery here very peaceful. Attractive to fishermen. Beautiful camp houses along the river's edge. We will soon come to a little station called Bow, N. H. where the inspired soul of Mary Baker Eddy was born. There, and at Concord, N. H. her heavenly and divinely inspired pages of "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" were written.

The train now stops at Concord, N. H. The depot is about like Jackson, Miss. There are lots of brick buildings, stone buildings, furniture manufacturing shops, frame houses, painted red like brick, massive poplar trees, beautiful pines, stately willows, old hickories. Now we come into a lot of scenery like that surrounding your good townsman, Mr. Weeks', holdings on Yalobusha River. We see squash, corn, beans and potatoes growing in the lowlands.

The Merrimac River is a bit narrow here and the cows come out for the best drink the old Merrimac can offer. They seem to have shed their prohibition clothes. Now we come to Penacook, Franklin Junction and on to Canaan, N. H. which perhaps would be the best place for the Jewish people changed its mountainous aspect and we come in sight of the great Daniel Webster Highway, and into White River Junction which is the line between New Hampshire and Vermont which state we will enter shortly after noon. We are passing the beautiful Webster Lake named in honor of the great Daniel. We see among the trees in the woods, huge brown boulders, as large as twenty feet in diameter. This is a great rocky surface we are going into - a mountain scenery which reminds us of Congress Springs in Los Gatos, Santa Clara County, Calif. There are fields and fields of goldenrod and wild fern in Vermont.

We are a wee bit surprised to see them here. Had classed them as belonging solely to our beloved Mississippi. We see many white men and women shocking corn in truly buxom fashion. We now reach Halcyn, Vt., familiar to us owing to my husband's niece having that name. Nearby an old gentleman gathering squash, but seemingly more interested in puffing his pipe.

Now we see truck loads of logs on the Webster Highway and our train slips into a thick wooded section and Oh! the beautiful autumn colored trees are indescribable - and now the river - then a lake - all surrounded by tree covered mountains. We are now at Boston, just a tiny stopping place in the mountains.

We next stop at Potter Place where lived a queer New England man, prosperous enough to have the town named after him. This Mr. Potter requested that he be buried on a hillside with his head down, as to him, his life had been failure. Now the grave is right on the side of the railroad tracks, fenced in by a white picket fence about ten feet square and the head slab pointing down the incline. The town is just a small New England village. We move towards Mt. Kearsarge, one of great height. We reach the Green Mountains of Vermont. We pause at Danbury and the flagman says "Canaan next". We again see quaint three story frame buildings, many creeks and mountains, very steep, trees light and dark, yellow, red and brown making a magnificent picture all the time. Creeks filled with pond lilies. I really believe our "Canaan" here in New Hampshire is like unto the Biblical "Canaan". I just can't describe all we are seeing - it's great! Huge trees of solid red foliage - firs, pines and elms, winding creeks, lovers lanes, massive boulders, a beautiful glacier lake bordered by several landslides. We are climbing steadily up the mountains - going through a deep cut of solid granite - almost touching our windows at times - then we shoot out into the wilds that seem totally uninhabited and now out into Canaan, a MacFadden flat with clothes outstretched to a telephone pole is the first thing to greet our eyes. Imagine my disappointment.

The train moves slowly past a little depot. A stray apple tree - a winding stream - a town about the size of Winona, Miss. but with indescribable scenery and with room for two Jerusalem - green pastures, beautiful flowers are waiting to welcome all who can brave the cold winters in Canaan, N. H.

Now we head toward Lebanon. Just stopped at Enfield where we see fields of timothy hay and beautiful pink clover. Quaint, old fashioned two-story houses, beautiful glacier
